Changing Practices for the L2 Writing Classroom Nigel A. Caplan, Ann Johns, 2019-04-26 This volume was written to make the case for changes in second language writing practices away from the five paragraph essay and toward purposeful meaningful writing instruction As the volume editors say If you have already rejected the five paragraph essay we offer validation and classroom tested alternatives If you are new to teaching L2 writing we introduce critical issues you will need to consider as you plan your lessons and as you consider review the textbooks and handbooks that continue to promote the teaching of the five paragraph essay If you need ammunition to present to colleagues and administrators we present theory research and pedagogy that will benefit students from elementary to graduate school If you are skeptical about our claims we invite you to review the research presented here and consider what your students could do beyond writing a five paragraph essay if you enacted these changes in practice Part 1 discusses what the five paragraph essay is not it is not a very old established form of writing it is not a genre and it is not universal Part 2 looks at writing practices to show the essay's ineffectiveness in elementary schools secondary schools first year writing classes university writing courses undergraduate discipline courses and graduate school Part 3 looks beyond the classroom at testing At the end of each chapter the authors all well known in the field of second language writing suggest changes to teaching practices based on their theoretical approach and classroom experience The book closes by reviewing some of the major questions raised in the book by exploring which questions have been left unanswered and by offering suggestions for teachers who want to move away from the five paragraph essay An assignment sequence for genre aware writing instruction is included Teaching L2
