BETWEEN WAR AND PEACE THE POTSDAM CONFERENCE

BY HERBERT FEIS

The Potsdam Conference, held between July and August 1945, marked the last major meeting of the Allied powers. It was the last time that the Big Three, the United States, Great Britain, and the Soviet Union, met in person to discuss the future of the world. The conference was a crucial moment in the history of the Cold War, as it was the last time that the three superpowers met in person. The conference was a failure, as it failed to produce a lasting peace. The conference was a failure because it failed to address the fundamental issues of the world. The conference was a failure because it failed to address the needs of the people. The conference was a failure because it failed to address the interests of the world. The conference was a failure because it failed to address the future of the world.
