

BCRS BRIEF COGNITIVE RATING SCALE

Adapted from Reisberg, B. and Ferris, S.H., Brief Cognitive Rating Scale (BCRS). Psychopharmacology Bulletin, 1988, 24:629-636.

Hi, my name is JCC. Tell me your (full) name. I would like to ask you some questions about your memory and thinking skills. Just answer the best that you can, if you can't remember, or don't know, just say "I don't know."

SCORE	ADULT-CONCENTRATION. Taking into consideration education level, ask: "How far did you go in school?" "How are you at subtraction?" "What is 7 from 100? 7 from 50, 7 from 80?" (If you can't do ask 49, if can't do ask 24)
1	No objective or subjective evidence of a deficit in concentration.
2	Subjective decrement in concentration ability.
3	Minor objective signs of poor concentration (e.g., subtraction of serial 7s from 100).
4	Definite concentration deficit for persons of their background (e.g., marked deficit on serial 7s, a frequent deficit in subtraction of serial 4s from 40s).
5	Marked concentration deficit (e.g., giving months backwards on serial 2s from 20).
6	Forgot the concentration task. Frequently begins to count forward when asked to count backward from 10 by 1s.
7	Marked difficulty counting forwards to 10 by 1s.

SCORE	ADULT-RECENT MEMORY. Ask "What did you do last weekend?" "What did you have for breakfast?" "What is the weather like today?" "Who is the president, the governor, etc."
1	No objective or subjective evidence of a deficit in recent memory.
2	Subjective impairment only (e.g., forgetting names more than formerly).
3	Deficit in recall of specific events evident upon detailed questioning. No deficit in recall of major recent events.
4	Cannot recall major events of previous weekend or week. Scanty knowledge (not detailed) of current events, favorite TV shows, etc.
5	Unclear of weather, may not know current President or current address.
6	Occasional knowledge of some events. Little or no idea of current address, weather, etc.
7	No knowledge of any recent events.

SCORE	ADULT-PAST MEMORY. Ask "What primary schools did you attend?" "Where is it located?" "Who were your primary teachers?" "Where were you born?" "Who were your childhood friends?" "What kind of things did you do with your childhood friends?"
1	No objective or subjective evidence of a deficit in past memory.
2	Subjective impairment only. Can recall two or more primary school teachers.
3	Some gaps in past memory upon detailed questioning. Able to recall at least one childhood teacher and/or one childhood friend.
4	Clear-cut deficit. The spouse recalls more of the patient's past than the patient. Cannot recall childhood friends and/or teachers but knows the names of most schools attended. Confuses chronology in reciting personal history.
5	Major past events are sometimes not recalled (e.g., names of schools attended).
6	Some residual memory of the past (e.g., may recall country of birth or former occupation).
7	No memory of past.

The Manual of Geriatric Anesthesia is a practical guide for physicians, residents, and students interested in the care of the elderly patient undergoing surgery. Although primarily written for anesthesiologists, other perioperative physicians and nurses will also find the information highly valuable. Highlights of the text include concise and clear discussions of preoperative assessment, anesthetic administration, the immediate postoperative care, as well as the more classic geriatric topics such as the hip fracture patient, cataract surgery, postoperative delirium, dementia, ethics, and end of life care. Clinical geriatric principles are woven into the text so that the reader can develop skills in geriatrics and develop a broader understanding of terminology and principles used in geriatric medicine.

The Guide to Mental Health for Nurses in Primary Care Elizabeth Armstrong, 2002. Nurses and professionals allied to medicine in primary care have increasingly important roles in implementing the National Service Framework (NSF) standards for mental health. This Guide describes what nurses can do on a daily basis to improve the care of people with mental health problems. It highlights the necessary tools and skills to identify those patients who need referral to a GP or community mental health nurse. The basis of the diagnostic criteria and clinical guidelines are from the World Health Organisation's Guide to Mental Health, UK version.

Psychopharmacology Bulletin, 1966. Measuring Health Ian McDowell, 2006. Worldwide economic constraints on health care systems have highlighted the importance of evidence-based medicine and evidence-based health policy. The resulting clinical trials and health services research studies require instruments to monitor the outcomes of care and the output of the health system. However, the overabundance of competing measurement scales can make choosing a measure difficult at best. Measuring Health provides in-depth reviews of over 100 of the leading health measurement tools and serves as a guide for choosing among them. Now in its third edition, this book provides a critical overview of the field of health measurement with a technical introduction and discussion of the history and future directions for the field. This latest edition updates the information on each of the measures previously reviewed and includes a complete new chapter on anxiety measurement to accompany the one on depression. It has also added new instruments to those previously reviewed in each of the chapters in the book. Chapters cover measurements of physical disability, social health, psychological well-being, anxiety, depression, mental status, testing pain, general health status, and quality of life. Each chapter presents a tabular comparison of the quality of the instruments reviewed, followed by a detailed description of each method, covering its purpose and conceptual basis its reliability and validity and where possible shows a copy of the actual scale To ensure accuracy of the information each review has been approved by the original author of each instrument or by an acknowledged expert
