Democratization from Within Florian Cullhaj, 2016-10-31 The nonviolent revolution of Albania reinforced the belief in the West that democracy is an exportable good if Western democracies implement a right combination of pressure and aid in collaboration with internal political actors Western pressure coupled with technical and economic assistance was domestically understood as a conditio sine qua non for the successful implementation of the first phase of democratic reforms However efforts to establish a democracy in Albania raised the following question Will the framing of the appropriate constitution and economic system building democratic institutions and developing positive attitudes towards them take place among Albanians through ongoing familiarization Accordingly the failure of the 1994 referendum on the new constitution the overnight changes of the 1998 constitution in 2008 and the permanent stagnant economy strengthened the belief among Albanians that a democratic constitution and a functioning market economy cannot flourish if they are not rooted in an environment pervaded by a democratic culture Furthermore if democracy has to persist and become consolidated it is not enough just to skillfully engineer institutions without taking into account the effect of political culture Ultimately this book attempts to show that the efforts made by the Western countries to export democracy to Albania and to promote consolidation through political tools generalized from other alien realities without taking into consideration Albania's internal political culture values have turned out to be in the long run a political abortion. On the other hand, this book should be construed neither as a critique of democracy nor as a defense of it; it is also not a balance sheet of the success or failure of democracy and democratization processes in Albania but rather it aims at presenting an alternative approach to democratic consolidation through Albania's authentic cultural heritage.

The Integrity of Governance L. Huberts, 2014-06-30 In the first book of its kind, Leo Huberts provides a critical synthesis of cutting edge research on public sector integrity, exploring issues such as the definition and importance of public sector integrity, the various methodological approaches to the field as well as considering the causes of the violation of values associated with integrity.

To Democratize or Not? Trials and Tribulations in the Postcolonial World Volkan Ipek, Ebru Ilter-Akarcay, 2020-07-06 This volume, a product of the first Tricontinental Conference organized by Yeditepe University, Istanbul, brings together perspectives on democracy and development in Africa, the Middle East, and Latin America. Representing local voices and insight, the contributors here respond to the dearth of comparative analysis on these three regions. In spite of the differences observed in colonial practices and postcolonial transitions, a shared disenchantment with the performance of competitive politics comes to the forefront in these geographical areas. Decades after decolonization, low intensity democracy and the continuing potential for democratic reversals and backsliding make the study of these three regions relevant. Considering the debates on protests, social upheavals, activism, change, and continuity, this book encourages the reader to survey the various trials and tribulations of the postcolonial era.

A Comparative Introduction to Political Science Alan G. Smith, 2016-04-08 When are legislators inclined to cast votes in cooperation with their parties and when do they go their own way? When and why do nations contend with each other and when are they more likely to cooperate? Thematically arranged around the interplay of contention and cooperation, A Comparative Introduction to Political Science encourages students to explore causal factors and consequences related to political phenomena to become knowledgeable and resourceful citizens of their nations and the world. Alan Smith covers how patterns of contention and cooperation and the resulting government policies may be affected by such factors as the surrounding political framework, the distribution of influence, and political motivation, including values as well as material interests. To expose students to the politics of specific nations, each chapter concludes with two country case studies that illuminate the theme of the chapter. Students emerge with a sense of what is going on in the world today. Pedagogically, the book employs careful sequencing of topics and concepts for clarity and to introduce politics in a natural, logical, synchronized way. At times, Smith goes beyond sharp night and day terminological distinctions to add accessible, ordinary language-based terminology that better captures the real world spectrum between the
