Animals And Science From Colonial Encounters To The Biotech Industry:

Animals and Science Maggie Bolton, Cathrine Degnen, 2020-05-15 What exactly does a focus on animals bring to anthropological studies of science This is a question that the various contributors to this edited collection set out to answer This range of studies explores the intersections between animals and science across different ethnographic settings and in different historical periods The contributions to this volume look at what it means to be human the place of human beings vis vis other species on this planet our ideas of what nature and culture are the limits to our ideas of kinship the ethical debates that surround science together with their interpretation by both scientific communities and the lay public and the moral comportment of scientists Through focusing on science our contributors not only demonstrate that people elsewhere have different relationships with and knowledge of beasts and that different possibilities of relating to animals exist within our own Western worldview but further suggest that our Western knowledge about animals and their positions in society arrived at through Western science and the social sciences is itself in need of rethinking to incorporate other ways of knowing This volume contends that accounts in which animals meet science provide important theoretical insights for anthropologists and can set new agendas for theory in anthropology and science studies

Humans and Other Animals Prof. Samantha Hurn, 2012-04-20 What are our attitudes towards other animals and how does this affect our humanity This work of anthrozoology explores the myriad and evolving ways in which humans and animals interact the divergent cultural constructions of humanity and animality found around the world and individual experiences of other animals This book looks at case studies covering blood sports such as hunting fishing and bull fighting pet keeping and petism eco tourism and wildlife conservation working animals and animals as food It addresses the idea of animal exploitation raised by the animal rights movements as well as the anthropological implications of changing attitudes towards animal personhood and the rise of a posthumanist philosophy in the social sciences more generally

Anthropology and Climate Change Susan A. Crate, Mark Nuttall, 2023-11-30 In this third edition of Anthropology and Climate Change Susan Crate and Mark Nuttall offer a collection of chapters that examine how anthropologists work on climate change issues with their collaborators both in academic research and practicing contexts and discuss new developments in contributions to policy and adaptation at different scales Building on the first edition's pioneering focus on anthropology's burgeoning contribution to climate change research policy and action as well as the second edition's focus on transformations and new directions for anthropological work on climate change this new edition reveals the extent to which anthropologists' contributions are considered to be critical by climate scientists policymakers affected communities and other rights holders Drawing on a range of ethnographic and policy issues this book highlights the work of anthropologists in the full range of contexts as scholars educators and practitioners from academic institutions to government bodies international science agencies and foundations working in interdisciplinary research teams and with community research partners The contributions to this new edition showcase important new academic research as well as applied and practicing approaches They emphasize human agency in the archaeological record the rapid development in the last decade of community based and community driven research and disaster research provide rich ethnographic insight into worldmaking practices interventions and collaborations and discuss how and in what ways anthropologists work in policy areas and engage with regional and global assessments This new edition is essential for established scholars and for students in anthropology and a range of other disciplines including environmental studies as well as for practitioners who engage with anthropological studies of climate change in their work

Sentient Entanglements and Ruptures in the Americas: Human-Animal Relations in the Amazon, Andes, and Arctic, 2023-08-28 This book draws together anthropological studies of human animal relations among Indigenous Peoples in three regions of the Americas the Andes Amazonia and the American Arctic Despite contrasts between the ecologies of the different regions it finds useful comparisons between the ways that lives of human and non human animals are entwined in shared circumstances and sentient entanglements While studies of all three regions have been influential in scholarship on human animal relations the regions are seldom brought together This volume highlights the value of examining partial connections across the American continent between human and other than human lives

The Andean World Linda J. Seligmann, Kathleen S. Fine-Dare, 2018-11-08 This comprehensive reference offers an authoritative overview of Andean lifeways It provides valuable historical context and demonstrates the relevance of learning about the Andes in light of contemporary events and debates The volume covers the ecology and pre Columbian history of the region and addresses key themes such as cosmology aesthetics gender and household relations modes of economic production exchange and consumption postcolonial legacies identities political organization and movements and transnational interconnections With over 40 essays by expert contributors that highlight the breadth and depth of Andean worlds this is an essential resource for students and scholars alike Llamas beyond the Andes Marcia Stephenson, 2023-12-12 Camelids are vital to the cultures and economies of the Andes. The animals have also been at the heart of ecological and social catastrophe. Europeans overhunted wild vicuñas and guanaco and imposed husbandry and breeding practices that decimated llama and alpaca flocks that had been successfully tended by Indigenous peoples for generations. Yet the colonial encounter with these animals was not limited to the New World. Llamas beyond the Andes tells the five hundred year history of animals removed from their native habitats and transported overseas. Initially Europeans prized camelids for the bezoar stones found in their guts, boluses of ingested matter that were thought to have curative powers. Then the animals themselves were shipped abroad as exotica. As Europeans and US Americans came to recognize the economic value of camelids, new questions emerged: What would these novel sources of protein and fiber mean for the sheep industry? And how best to cultivate herds? Andeans had the expertise but knowledge sharing was rarely easy. Marcia Stephenson explores the myriad scientific, commercial and cultural interests that have attended camelids globally, making these animals a critical meeting point for diverse groups from the North and South. Anthropology and Beauty Stephanie Bunn, 2018-01-17 Organised around the theme of beauty, this innovative collection offers insight into the development of anthropological thinking on art, aesthetics and creativity in recent years. The volume incorporates current work on perception and generative processes and seeks to move beyond a purely aesthetic and relativist stance. The chapters invite readers to consider how people sense and seek out beauty, whether through acts of human creativity and production, through sensory experience of sound, light or touch, or experiencing architecture, visiting heritage sites or ancient buildings, experiencing the environment through places of outstanding natural beauty or through cooperative action, machine engineering or designing for the future. Iconic Places in Central Asia Jeanne Féaux de la Croix, 2016-12-15 Jeanne Féaux de la Croix maps three iconic places as part of Central Asians' moral geographies and examines their role in navigating socialist, neo-liberal and neo-Islamic life models. Dams provide most of Kyrgyzstan's electricity but are also at the heart of regional water disputes that threaten an already shrinking Aral Sea. Mountain pastures cover much of Central Asia's heartland and offer a livelihood and refuge even to urban citizens. Pilgrimage sites have recovered from official Soviet oblivion and act as cherished scenes of decision making. Examining how iconic places work and well-being can mesh together, this book moves debates about post-Soviet memory, space and property onto fresh terrain. La laisse du tigre David Jaclin, 2019-11-20 Un tigre du Bengale qui barbote anxieusement dans une petite piscine en plastique durant l'été et que l'on nourrit de viande de supermarché: est-il toujours un tigre? En examinant l'existence trouble d'animaux réputés sauvages mais vivant désormais de conditions domestiques et artificielles, puissantes, ce livre pose la double question de la communication et de l'animalité. La vie accidentée de ces animaux trafiqués transpire nos changements écologiques actuels; incarne la disparition vertigineuse d'espèces animales et renvoie la déterioration accrue des habitats naturels. Dans ce livre, on découvre des biographies animales comme celle d'un chimpanzé, d'un cobaye Rachel vivant dans un sanctuaire, d'un lisateuse ou encore celle d'un dauphin Nellie au chômage mis aux enchères après la faillite du parc d'attraction qui l'a vu naître et grandir. Mises en résonance, chacune de ces biographies compose un véritable bestiaire d'êtres qui pourraient sembler provenir d'histoires fictives, abracadabrantesques et qui pourtant sont tout sauf imaginaires. Voilà qui permet de repenser autrement la vieille question de l'espèce. Publi en français.
