Climate Change Adaptation Strategies - An Upstream-downstream Perspective Nadine Salzmänn, Christian Huggel, Samuel U. Nussbaumer, Gina Ziervogel, 2016-10-03 Climate change and the related adverse impacts are among the greatest challenges facing humankind during the coming decades Even with a significant reduction of anthropogenic greenhouse gas emissions it will be inevitable for societies to adapt to new climatic conditions and associated impacts and risks This book offers insights to first experiences of developing and implementing adaptation measures with a particular focus on mountain environments and the adjacent downstream areas It provides a comprehensive state of the art of climate change adaptation in these areas through the collection and evaluation of knowledge from several local and regional case studies and by offering new expertise and insights at the global level As such the book is an important source for scientists practitioners and decision makers alike who are working in the field of climate change adaptation and towards sustainable development in the sense of the Paris Agreement and the Agenda 2030

The Adaptive Challenge of Climate Change

Karen O'Brien, Elin Selboe, 2015-08-07 This book presents a new perspective on adaptation to climate change It considers climate change as more than a problem that can be addressed solely through technical expertise Instead it approaches climate change as an adaptive challenge that is fundamentally linked to beliefs values and worldviews as well as to power politics identities and interests Drawing on case studies from high income countries the book argues that it is time to consider adaptation to climate change as a challenge of social personal and political transformations The authors represent a variety of fields and perspectives illustrating the importance of interdisciplinary approaches to the problem The book will be of interest to researchers policymakers and advanced students in the environmental sciences social sciences and humanities as well as to decision makers and practitioners interested in new ideas about adapting to climate change

Climate Refugees Simon Behrman, Avidan Kent, 2022-03-17 A discussion of cutting edge developments in policy on climate change and forced displacement from leading academics and practitioners

The Routledge Handbook of Urbanization and Global Environmental Change Karen Seto, William Solecki, Corrie Griffith, 2015-12-22 This volume provides a comprehensive overview of the interactions and feedbacks between urbanization and global environmental change A key focus is the examination of how urbanization influences global environmental change and how global environmental change in turn influences urbanization processes It has four thematic foci Theme 1 addresses the pathways through which urbanization drives global environmental change Theme 2 addresses the pathways through which global environmental change affects the urban system Theme 3 addresses the interactions and responses within the urban system in response to global environmental change Theme 4 centers on critical emerging research

Responding to Climate Change in Asian Cities Diane Archer, Sarah Colenbrander, David Dodman, 2016-11-03 The role of cities in addressing climate change is increasingly recognised in international arenas including the Sustainable Development Goals the UN Framework Convention on Climate Change and the New Urban Agenda Asia is home to many of the countries that are most vulnerable to climate change impacts and along with Africa will be the site of most urban population growth over the coming decades Bringing together a range of city experiences Responding to Climate Change in Asian Cities provides valuable insights into how cities can overcome some of the barriers to building climate resilience including addressing the needs of vulnerable populations The chapters are centred on an overarching understanding that adaptive urban governance is necessary for climate resilience This requires engaging with different actors to take into account their experiences vulnerabilities and priorities building knowledge including collecting and using appropriate evidence and understanding the institutions shaping interactions between actors from the national to the local level The chapters draw on a mix of research methodologies demonstrating the variety of approaches to understanding and building urban resilience that can be applied in urban settings Bringing together a range of expert contributors this book will be of great interest to scholars of urban studies sustainability and environmental studies development studies and Asian studies Cities and Climate Change Harriet

Bulkeley,2013-05-07 Climate change is one of the most significant global challenges facing the world today It is also a critical issue for the world s cities Now home to over half the world s population urban areas are significant sources of greenhouse gas emissions and are vulnerable to the impacts of climate change Responding to climate change is a profound challenge A variety of actors are involved in urban climate governance with municipal governments international organisations and funding bodies pointing to cities as key arenas for response This book provides the first critical introduction to these challenges giving an overview of the science and policy of climate change at the global level and the emergence of climate change as an urban policy issue It considers the challenges of governing climate change in the city in the context of the changing nature of urban politics economics society and infrastructures It looks at how responses for mitigation and adaptation have emerged within the city and the implications of climate change for social and environmental justice Drawing on examples from cities in the north and south and richly illustrated with detailed case studies this book will enable students to understand the potential and limits of addressing climate change at the urban level and to explore the consequences for our future cities It will be essential reading for undergraduate students across the disciplines of geography politics sociology urban studies planning and science and technology studies A Changing Environment for Human Security Linda

Sygna,Karen O'Brien,Johanna Wolf,2013-06-26 Environmental change presents a new context and new opportunities for transformational change This timely book will inspire new ways of understanding the relationship between environmental change and human security A Changing Environment for Human Security Transformative Approaches to Research Policy and Action both supports and informs a call for new transformative approaches to research policy and action The chapters in this book include critical analyses case studies and reflections on contemporary environmental and social challenges with a strong emphasis on those related to climate change Human thoughts and actions have contributed to an environment of insecurity manifested as multiple interacting threats that now represent a serious challenge to humanity Yet humans also have the capacity to collectively transform the economic political social and cultural systems and structures that perpetuate human insecurities These fresh perspectives on global environmental change from an interdisciplinary group of international experts will inspire readers whether students researchers policy makers or practitioners to think differently about environmental issues and sustainability The contributions show that in a changing environment human security is not only a possibility but a choice
