Adapting to climate change Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Environmental Audit Committee, 2010-03-25 Climate projections show that Britain can expect wetter winters drier summers and a higher likelihood of flash floods heat waves and droughts Yet adaptation to climate change has been given only a fraction of the attention that has gone into reducing greenhouse gases The Government must build awareness and support for the wide ranging and urgent programme of action that is needed to protect people property and prosperity and safeguard the natural environment Adapting infrastructure and homes will be expensive To maintain current levels of flood protection for homes real terms spending on flood defences will need to increase from its current level of around 600 million per annum to around 1 billion in 2035 Estimates in 2009 suggest that by the end of the century around 7 billion may be needed to improve the Thames flood barrier and tidal defences New homes being built now must be designed to cope with the inevitable changes in climate over the next 50 80 years The Government must make adaptation and mitigation more central to the planning system New developments should only be permitted if they are suited to future climates Existing homes will also need to be adapted so that they are comfortable during hotter summers and better protected against the risk of flooding The Government must help to kick start an integrated retro fitting programme that covers adaptation water efficiency and energy efficiency Green infrastructure such as water storage greater tree cover and more open green spaces must also be promoted

Adapting Institutions to Climate Change Great Britain. Royal Commission on Environmental Pollution, 2010 The overwhelming scientific consensus is that the earth is warming because of human activities Adaptation will be necessary even if mitigation efforts are markedly increased because we are already locked in to climate change as a result of historic greenhouse gas emissions Projections show that it is likely that global average temperatures will rise by 2 degrees C and there is the potential for a 4 degree C rise by the end of the century UK projections suggest warmer drier summers and warmer wetter winters The consequences are likely to be profound even devastating with more extreme events floods drought and heat waves coupled with sea level rises Policies and practice on water management coast protection and nature conservation will need to change This report explores how institutions should adapt their policies to a changing climate and offers a ten point check list to be followed by all organisations The Commission found many institutions are poorly prepared to adapt to climate change and many have simply not started to consider it The Commission makes recommendations designed to help institutions develop their capacity to respond to this challenge In contrast to climate change mitigation where local actions have global benefits adaptation is primarily about local action with local consequences that may differ markedly in different parts of the UK

Climate Change Adaptation Manual Andrea Prutsch, Torsten Grothmann, Sabine McCallum, Inke Schauser, Rob Swart, 2014-02-24 Due to the lack of success in climate change mitigation efforts the importance of adaptation is becoming more and more apparent and is now one of the main imperatives of international research and action However research on adaptation is mostly not directly applicable to adaptation policy or practice leaving a gap between scientific results and practical advice for decision makers and planners This book seeks to address this problem and bridge the gap and should provide readers with practical and applicable information on climate change adaptation Following an introduction the book is organised into four main sections each reflecting an essential component in the adaptation process Climate change adaptation is an emerging subject area and has gained increased political and academic attention within the last decade Whereas most books in the field focus on adaptation in developing countries this volume provides an examination of predominantly European policy and offers interdisciplinary insight into cutting edge knowledge and lessons learnt in a relatively new field of implementation

Strategies for Adaptation to Climate Change in a Transformative Approach Jaap M. de Heer, Giasuddin Ahmed Choudhury, 2025-07-28 The Bangladesh experience shows that adaptation to climate change needs to be seen in conjunction with existing and changing weather patterns natural hazards and the natural resources systems Moreover adaptation to climate change has next to the physical and technical content a socio economic dimension in relation to the many societal and economic aspects of water resources and climate change Adaptation in terms of strategy making and implementation is thus embedded in a country's society with its traditions
