

"The very essence of going out to battle is that you get the enemy's blood on your hands. And that's what the Americans want. They want to see the enemy's blood on their hands. It's the only way to win."

When the Japanese attacked the island, the Americans were not prepared. They had no weapons, no food, no water. They were just a group of men and women who had been sent to a remote island in the Pacific. They were the only Americans left on the island. They were the only Americans who had survived the attack.
