Complete the following reading guide in its entirety using the AMSCO text.

→c8.1 and 8.2 | Contextualizing Period 8 and The Cold War from 1945 to 1980

Learning Objectives	Historical Developments
Explain the historical context for societal changes from 1945 to 1980.	8.1 Contextualizing Period 8 Take general notes over the following sections: Introduction - In 1945, the United States emerged from World War II with the world's largest and -the strongest economy. Americans were happy to get back to civilian life. However, people feared that without the stimulus of wartime spending, the economic depression of the 1930s might return. What no one could predict with any confidence was how the economy at home, the migration to the suburbs and Sun Belt, the spread of communism, and the civil rights movements for African Americans and others would impact American lives in the future. U.S. - Soviet Conflicts - The postwar struggle between the United States and the Soviet Union, between Western democracies and the Communist bloc nations, which became known as the Cold War, provided the context for many, if not most, events of the period from 1945 to 1980. This struggle showed up in U.S. involvement in wars both in Korea and Vietnam, and in the case of the Cuban Missile Crisis of 1962, a direct confrontation that brought the two nations to the brink of nuclear war. The Cold War also had a pervasive effect on American society, from how we built schools (over bomb shelters) to the civil rights movement, as more Americans woke up to the glaring injustices of segregation, which mocked our democracy overseas and contradicted the basic principles of freedom and equal opportunity. Concerns about Communism - After World War II, the United States had a second Red Scare. Its context involved spies giving atomic bomb secrets to the Communists and hunting down Communists in the State Department, the military, Hollywood, schools, churches, and other American institutions, and at the height of the fear, neighbors. The Cold War also contributed to public debates over foreign policy issues, such as U.S. involvement in Vietnam, which led to massive protests by students and antiwar activists that deeply divided the nation and brought down a president. However, the Cold War fluctuated between periods of confrontation and coexistence or détente. Economic Growth and Change - At the same time, Americans enjoyed robust economic growth through the 1950s and 1960s. Part of the context was that the country faced little overseas competition, as the rest of world's economies recovered from the destruction of factories, roads, railways, and harbors during World War II. However, it also involved the pent-up demand for housing, autos, and other consumer goods following the austerity of the Great Depression and World War II. Veterans returning from war and their families changed the U.S. landscape by moving to the Sun Belt states and creating new suburbs across the nation with the help of the government's GI Bill. Civil Rights and Liberal Reform - Reform if anything pushed the Cold War into the background it was the societal changes related to the civil rights movement of African Americans during the 1950s and 1960s, and then in the 1970s the issues of equality and social justice raised by women and ethnic minorities. The liberalism of the postwar era, which expanded the role of government, generated a range of responses from support to a growing backlash from both secular and religious conservatives. Turn Toward Conservatism - By the late 1960s, frustration over the Vietnam War, opposition to civil rights reforms and other liberal domestic programs, and increased civil unrest weakened the Democratic majority. Postwar optimism and prosperity gave way to pessimism and a declining standard of living for many Americans, as many good-paying jobs in manufacturing went overseas to low-wage countries. People were losing confidence in government's ability to solve problems and in the effectiveness of American institutions, from the news media to colleges and universities. By the mid-1970s, as wage growth stagnated. For average Americans, liberalism slowly gave way to a conservative resurgence.
