Guide to Road Design ,2009 The Guide to road design Part 6A pedestrian and cyclist paths provides guidance for road designers and other practitioners on the design of paths for safe and efficient walking and cycling The guide provides a brief introduction to planning and the need for a path describes the types of path and covers the requirements of path users However the main focus of Part 6A is the geometric design of paths and related facilities Detailed guidance is provided on path location alignment width clearances crossfall drainage and sight distance requirements Summary preliminary p

Cycling Futures Jennifer Bonham, Marilyn Johnson, 2015-12-04 The focus of the first half of the book is largely on the current engagement with cycling challenges faced by existing and would be cyclists and the issues cycling might address The second half of the book is concerned with strategies and processes of change Contributors working from different ontological positions reflect on changing socio spatial relations to enable the broadest possible participation in cycling Planning Australia's Healthy Built Environments Jennifer Kent, Susan Thompson, 2019-03-18 Planning Australia s Healthy Built Environments shines a quintessentially Australian light on the links between land use planning and human health A burgeoning body of empirical research demonstrates the ways urban structure and governance influences human health and Australia is playing a pivotal role in developing understandings of the relationships between health and the built environment This book takes a retrospective look at many of the challenges faced in pushing the healthy built environment agenda forward It provides a clear and theoretically sound framework to inform this work into the future With an emphasis on context and the pursuit of equity Jennifer L Kent and Susan Thompson supply specific ways to better incorporate idiosyncrasies of place and culture into urban planning interventions for health promotion By chronicling the ways health and the built environment scholarship and practice can work together Planning Australia s Healthy Built Environments enters into new theoretical and practical debates in this critically important area of research This book will resonate with both health and built environment scholars and practitioners working to create sustainable and health supportive urban environments Guidelines for the Design of Footbridges fib Fédération internationale du béton, 2005-01-01 The intention of fib Bulletin 32 is to present guidelines for the design of footbridges as well as bridges accommodating cyclists and bridleways equestrian paths The need for these guidelines comes from the fact that structural engineers designing footbridges currently have to spend considerable time and energy collecting information from numerous documents codes and recommendations to make design decisions There seems to be no international document dedicated solely to the design of footbridges These guidelines attempt to provide a concentrated source of information regarding all design issues specific to footbridges It is meant to be a liberal document in the sense that it promotes new innovative and bold yet prudent designs by sharing the experience of the authors summarizing specifications given in codes and presenting a collection of examples of well designed structures or structural details from around the world It is not intended to be an international code that specifies limits and admissible values thus encouraging timid conservative designs that are repetitions of approved and tested designs Indeed it may be the very fact that no international code exists specifically for footbridges that encourages the wide variety of footbridge designs found today It should be noted that numerous guidelines codes and books have been published on bridge design in general Information given in those publications that is also applicable to footbridges is not repeated in Bulletin 32 The chapters of these guidelines all follow the same pattern an introduction to the subject general guidelines as well as do s and don ts a summary of information found in existing international codes recommendations experience of the authors and built examples with comparison and comments on this information examples Plenty of illustrations and photographs help to visualize the themes of this work The last chapter Case Studies contains footbridges each with a short summary of main structural data and references for further reading
