Moving Beyond Church Growth Mark A. Olson, 2001-12-01 Character development for communities of faith Mark Olson believes that trying to meet unrealistic expectations for church growth along with expectations that pastors be all things to all people has resulted in low morale even burnout among clergy and dissension within congregations Olson's book argues that church growth models exemplify and exacerbate the tendencies of the modern age and Constantinian Christianity holding the church hostage to technique and marketing These assumptions set up pastors and churches for disappointment and failure But they also in his opinion miss an opportunity to envision a faithful alternative to the consumeristic church Olson's valuable book calls church leaders to faithful bold and courageous rethinking of congregational life and witness in substance purpose and style His own 20 years of ministry in rural suburban and urban congregations inform an alternative rooted deeply in the past and anchored in strong leadership and worship but also profoundly compassionate and engaged in the surrounding community In this model pastors primary responsibilities are not to fix everything and everybody but to enable people to be present to each other and to provide hope Beyond the Learning Curve Craig P. Macgregor, 2011-11-01 Women's environmental activism is often described in maternalist terms as if motherhood and caring for the environment go hand in hand While feminists celebrate this connection women and all those who care for people and environments are facing increasing burdens and decreasing time for civic engagement In Beyond Mothering Earth MacGregor argues that celebrations of earthcare as women's unique contribution to the search for sustainability often neglect to consider the importance of politics and citizenship in women's lives Drawing on interviews with women who juggle private caring with civic engagement in quality of life concerns she proposes an alternative a project of feminist ecological citizenship that affirms the practice of citizenship as an intrinsically valuable activity while recognizing the foundational aspects of caring labour and natural processes that allow its specificity to flourish Beyond Mothering Earth provides an original and empirically grounded understanding of women's involvement in quality of life activism and an analysis of citizenship that makes an important contribution to contemporary discussions of green politics globalization neoliberalism and democratic justice It will be of value to scholars and activists interested in the politics of environmental sustainability and the shifting meanings of citizenship in an increasingly vulnerable world One Steppe Beyond Thom
