Between Vengeance And Forgiveness Facing History After Genocide And Mass Violence

Eric Wiebelhaus-Brahm

Between Vengeance And Forgiveness Facing History After Genocide And Mass Violence:

Between Vengeance and Forgiveness Martha Minow, 2001-01-17 The rise of collective violence and genocide is the twentieth century's most terrible legacy Martha Minow a Harvard law professor and one of our most brilliant and humane legal minds offers a landmark book on our attempts to heal after such large scale tragedy Writing with informed searching prose of the extraordinary drama of the truth commissions in Argentina East Germany and most notably South Africa war crime prosecutions in Nuremberg and Bosnia and reparations in America Minow looks at the strategies and results of these riveting national experiments in justice and healing

Punishment and the Moral Emotions Jeffrie G. Murphy, 2014-03 The essays in this collection explore from philosophical and religious perspectives a variety of moral emotions and their relationship to punishment and condemnation or to decisions to lessen punishment or condemnation

Germany's Foreign Policy of Reconciliation Lily Gardner Feldman, 2014-07-16 Since World War II Germany has confronted its own history to earn acceptance in the family of nations Lily Gardner Feldman draws on the literature of religion philosophy social psychology law and political science and history to understand Germany's foreign policy with its moral and pragmatic motivations and to develop the concept of international reconciliation Germany's Foreign Policy of Reconciliation traces Germany's path from enmity to amity by focusing on the behavior of individual leaders governments and non governmental actors The book demonstrates that at least in the cases of France Israel Poland and Czechoslovakia the Czech Republic Germany has gone far beyond banishing war with its former enemies it has institutionalized active friendship The German experience is now a model of its own offering lessons for other cases of international reconciliation Gardner Feldman concludes with an initial application of German reconciliation insights to the other principal post World War II pariah as Japan expands its relations with China and South Korea

Doing Justice to History Barrie Sander, 2021 This book examines how historical narratives of mass atrocities are constructed and contested within international criminal courts In particular it looks into the important question of what tends to be foregrounded and what tends to be excluded in these narratives

(Re)Constructing Memory: Education, Identity, and Conflict Michelle J. Bellino, James H. Williams, 2017-02-08 How do schools protect young people and call on the youngest citizens to respond to violent conflict and division operating outside and sometimes within school walls What kinds of curricular representations of conflict contribute to the construction of national identity and what kinds of encounters challenge presumed boundaries between us and them Through contemporary and historical case studies drawn from Cambodia Egypt Northern Ireland Peru and Rwanda among others this collection explores how societies experiencing armed conflict and its aftermath imagine education as a space for forging collective identity peace and stability and national citizenship In some contexts the erasure of conflict and the homogenization of difference are central to shaping national identities and attitudes In other cases collective memory of conflict functions as a central organizing frame through which citizenship and national identity are re constructed with embedded messages about who belongs and how social belonging is achieved The essays in this volume illuminate varied and complex inter relationships between education conflict and national identity while accounting for ways in which policymakers teachers youth and community members replicate resist and transform conflict through everyday interactions in educational spaces Imagining the International Nesam McMillan,2020-09-08 International crime and justice are powerful ideas associated with a vivid imagery of heinous atrocities injured humanity and an international community seized by the need to act Through an analysis of archival and contemporary data Imagining the International provides a detailed picture of how ideas of international crime crimes against all of humanity and global justice are given content foregrounding their ethical limits and potentials Nesam McMillan argues that dominant approaches to these ideas problematically disconnect them from the lived and the specific and foster distance between those who have experienced international crime and those who have not McMillan draws on interdisciplinary work spanning law criminology humanitarianism socio legal studies cultural studies and human geography to show how understandings of international crime and justice hierarchize spectacularize and appropriate the suffering of others and promote an ideal of justice fundamentally disconnected from life as it is lived McMillan critiques the mode of global interconnection they offer one which bears resemblance to past colonial global approaches and which seeks to foster community through the image of crime and the practice of punitive justice This book powerfully underscores the importance of the ideas of international crime and justice and their significant limits cautioning against their continued valorization Truth Commissions and Transitional Societies Eric Wiebelhaus-Brahm,2010-01-05

This book uses a multi method approach to examine the impact of truth commissions on subsequent human rights protection and democratic practice and features cross national case studies on South Africa El Salvador Chile and Uganda

Breaking the Cycles of Hatred Martha Minow,2009-01-10 Violence so often begets violence Victims respond with revenge only to inspire seemingly endless cycles of retaliation Conflicts between nations between ethnic groups between strangers and between family members differ in so many ways and yet often share this dynamic In this powerful and timely book Martha Minow and others ask What explains these cycles and what can break them What lessons can we draw from one form of violence that might be relevant to other forms Can legal responses to violence provide accountability but avoid escalating vengeance If so what kinds of legal institutions and practices can make a difference What kinds risk failure Breaking the Cycles of Hatred represents a unique blend of political and legal theory one that focuses on the double edged role of memory in fueling cycles of hatred and maintaining justice and personal integrity Its centerpiece comprises three penetrating essays by Minow She argues that innovative legal institutions and practices such as truth commissions and civil damage actions against groups that sponsor hate often work better than more conventional criminal proceedings and sanctions Minow also calls for more sustained attention to the underlying dynamics of violence the connections between intergroup and intrafamily violence and the wide range of possible responses to violence beyond criminalization A vibrant set of freestanding responses from experts in political theory psychology history and law examines past and potential avenues for breaking cycles of violence and for deepening our capacity to avoid becoming what we hate The topics include hate crimes and hate crimes legislation child sexual abuse and the statute of limitations and the American kidnapping and internment of Japanese Latin Americans during World War II Commissioned by Nancy Rosenblum the essays are by Ross E Cheit Marc Galanter Fredrick C Harris Judith Lewis Herman Carey Jaros Frederick M Lawrence Austin Sarat Ayelet Shachar Eric K Yamamoto and Iris Marion Young

Mixed Emotions Andrew A. G. Ross, 2022-12-22 In recent years it s become increasingly clear that emotion plays a central role in global politics For example people readily care about acts of terrorism and humanitarian crises because they appeal to our compassion for human suffering These struggles also command attention where social interactions have the power to produce or intensify the emotional responses of those who participate in them From passionate protests to poignant speeches Andrew A G Ross analyzes high emotion events with an eye to how they shape public sentiment and finds that there is no single answer The politically powerful play to the public s emotions to advance their political aims and such appeals to emotion also often serve to sustain existing values and institutions But the affective dimension can produce profound change particularly when a struggle in the present can be shown to line up with emotionally resonant events from the past Extending his findings to well studied conflicts including the War on Terror and the violence in Rwanda and the Balkans Ross identifies important sites of emotional impact missed by earlier research focused on identities and interests

Breaking Intergenerational Cycles of Repetition Pumla Gobodo-Madikizela, 2016-01-18 The authors in this volume explore the interconnected issues of intergenerational trauma and traumatic memory in societies with a history of collective violence across the globe Each chapter s discussion offers a critical reflection on historical trauma and its repercussions and how memory can be used as a basis for dialogue and transformation The perspectives include among others the healing journey of three generations of a family of Holocaust survivors and their dialogue with third generation German students over time traumatic memories of the British concentration camps in South Africa reparations and reconciliation in the context of the historical trauma of Aboriginal Australians and the use of the arts as a strategy of dialogue and transformation
