Beyond Borders Stories Of Yunnanese Chinese Migrants Of Burma:

Beyond Borders Wen-Chin Chang, 2015-01-16 The Yunnanese from southwestern China have for millennia traded throughout upland Southeast Asia Burma in particular has served as a back door to Yunnan providing a sanctuary for political refugees and economic opportunities for trade explorers Since the Chinese Communist takeover in 1949 and subsequent political upheavals in China an unprecedented number of Yunnanese refugees have fled to Burma Through a personal narrative approach Beyond Borders is the first ethnography to focus on the migration history and transnational trading experiences of contemporary Yunnanese Chinese migrants composed of both Yunnanese Han and Muslims who reside in Burma and those who have moved from Burma and resettled in Thailand Taiwan and China Since the 1960s Yunnanese Chinese migrants of Burma have dominated the transnational trade in opium jade and daily consumption goods Wen Chin Chang writes with deep knowledge of this trade s organization from the 1960s of mule driven caravans to the use of modern transportation and she reconstructs trading routes while examining embedded sociocultural meanings These Yunnanese migrants mobility attests to the prevalence of travel not only by the privileged but also by different kinds of people Their narratives disclose individual life processes as well as networks of connections modes of transportation and differences between the experiences of men and women Through traveling they have carried on the mobile livelihoods of their predecessors expanding overland trade beyond its historical borderlands between Yunnan and upland Southeast Asia to journeys further afield by land sea and air

Chinese in Colonial Burma Yi Li, 2017-02-25 Using previously unexplored archives from colonial institutions and individuals and primary materials produced by the Burmese Chinese this comprehensive study investigates over a century of history of the Burmese Chinese under British colonial rule Due to the peculiar position of Burma in the British imperial world and the Southeast Asian Chinese network the Chinese community had a unique experience in a Southeast Asian colony governed by Europeans with an India based system This book reveals through everyday life experience prominent community figures and milestone events the internal rivalry and integration among different regional groups within the community and the general impressions it left in contemporary observations and communal memories The book also traces historical roots of some unsolved ethnic issues in present day Myanmar

Chinese Capitalism in Southeast Asia Yos Santasombat, 2017-09-04 This collection examines the historically and geographically specific form of economic organization of the overseas Chinese in Southeast Asia and how it has adapted to the different historical and socio political contexts of Southeast Asian countries Moving beyond cultural explanations and traits to focus on the process of evolution and dynamism of situated practices it argues that Chinese Capitalism is rapidly becoming a form of hybrid capitalism and embodies the interdependent of culturally and institutionally specific dynamics at local and regional level evolving and adapting to different institutional contexts and politico economic conditions in the host Asian economies This text also explores the social organization and political economy of the so called overseas Chinese by examining the changing dynamism of Chinese capitalism in relation to forces of globalization Focusing on key actors primarily Chinese entrepreneurs in their business practices and situated practices as well as cultural political social and economic factors under globalizing conditions it provides providing a broad understanding without fixating or homogenizing Chinese capitalism contributing to the understanding of the contexts that give rise to the emergence and transformation of Chinese Capitalism in Southeast Asia Yunnan-Burma-Bengal Corridor Geographies Dan Smyer Yü, Karin Dean, 2021-09-30

Chinese Diasporas Steven B. Miles, 2020-02-20 A concise and compelling survey of Chinese migration in global history centered on Chinese migrants and their families Myanmar's Mountain and Maritime Borderscapes Su-Ann Oh, 2016-08-16

This edited volume adds to the literature on Myanmar and its borders by drawing attention to the significance of geography history politics and society in the construction of the border regions and the country First it alerts us to the fact that the border regions are situated in the mountainous and maritime domains of the country highlighting the commonalities that arise from shared geography Second the book foregrounds socio spatio practices e economic intimate spiritual virtuale of border and boundary making in their local context This demonstrates how state defined notions of territory borders and identity are enacted or challenged Third despite sharing common features Myanmar s borderscapes also possess unique configurations of ethnic political and economic attributes producing social formations and figured worlds that are more cohesive or militant in some border areas than in others Understanding and comparing these social practices and their corresponding life worlds allows us to re examine the connections from the borderlands back to the hinterland and to consider the value of border and boundary studies in problematizing and conceptualizing recent changes in Myanmar

Echoes from the Sino-Burmese Borderlands Wen-Chin Chang, 2025-12-09 Grounded in extensive fieldwork and archival research Echoes from the Sino Burmese Borderlands is an ethnography that explores the clandestine travel of primarily Yunnanese Chinese migrants via the Sino Burmese borderlands during the Cold War. Wen Chin Chang probes their political, economic, and sociocultural trajectories, including their engagement in Taiwan's espionage in Burma, military operations of the Communist Party of Burma, mule transport for the Burmese authorities, underground cross-border trade, and pursuit of a Chinese education. Through the lens of existential anthropology, Chang illustrates how these migrants lived experiences intersected with the volatile situation in the frontier areas where many ethnic groups and political entities co-existed. Although subjected to state and non-state violence, these individuals demonstrated their resilience, political liminality, economic adroitness, and skillfulness in networking as they moved across borders in search of a better life. In contrast to conventional historical narratives often focused on global politics and ideological confrontations, Chang's examination of these migrants' overlooked stories offers a compelling and nuanced Cold War history of the Sino Burmese borderlands where exclusion pushed people to seek out change and adversity was met with creative adaptation.

Asymmetrical Neighbors
Enze Han, 2019-08-12

Is the process of state building a unilateral national venture or is it something more collaborative taking place in the interstices between adjoining countries? To answer this question, Asymmetrical Neighbors takes a comparative look at the state building process along China, Myanmar, and Thailand's common borderland area. It shows that the variations in state building among these neighboring countries are the result of an interactive process that occurs across national boundaries. Departing from existing approaches that look at such processes from the angle of singular, bounded territorial states, the book argues that a more fruitful method is to examine how state and nation building in one country can influence and be influenced by the same processes across borders. It argues that the success or failure of one country's state building is a process that extends beyond domestic factors such as war preparation, political institutions, and geographic and demographic variables. Rather, it shows that we should conceptualize state building as an interactive process heavily influenced by a neighborhood effect. Furthermore, the book moves beyond the academic boundaries that divide arbitrarily China studies and Southeast Asian studies by providing an analysis that ties the state and nation building processes in China with those of Southeast Asia.

Myanmar (Burma) since the 1988 Uprising
Andrew Selth, 2022-01-24

Updated by popular demand, this is the fourth edition of this important bibliography. It lists a wide selection of works on or about Myanmar published in English and in hard copy since the 1988 pro-democracy uprising, which marked the beginning of a new era in Myanmar's modern history. There are now 2,727 titles listed. They have been written, edited, translated, or compiled by over 2,000 people from many different backgrounds. These works have been organized into thirty-five subject chapters containing ninety-five discrete sections. There are also four appendices, including a comprehensive reading guide for those unfamiliar with Myanmar or who may be seeking guidance on particular topics. This book is an invaluable aid to officials, scholars, journalists, armchair travellers, and others with an interest in this fascinating but deeply troubled country.

Diasporic Chinese Voluntary Associations in Transition Ningning Chen, Emily Hertzman, Sylvia Ang, 2025-02-17

Recent studies of Chinese voluntary associations CVAs have attempted to highlight the theoretical significance of CVAs for understandings of community re making However the power dynamics inherent in community re making have rarely been expounded In recognition of this this book weaves together case studies across countries in the Asia Pacific to explore the complex power relations played out in and through the transformation of CVAs Collectively CVAs are understood as ever changing heterogeneous ancestral communities composed of common ancestral ties be it origin locality surname religion or language Contributions to this book focus on CVAs in three ways 1 by foregrounding CVAs as sites of power relations through unpacking ethnic relations and gender hierarchies 2 by illuminating Chinese diaspora transnationalism beyond political economic perspectives and 3 by examining the contemporaneous transformation of ethnic Chinese communities in shifting times including amidst China s rise as a global power This book was originally published as a special issue of Ethnic and Racial Studies
