You Have to Feel what They Know Rebecka Ann Hagerty, 1991

Beyond the Science of Reading Natalie Wexler, 2025-01-30 In this provocative and timely book education writer Natalie Wexler argues that the best way to end the reading wars is to recognize that learning to read is inextricably linked to learning in general The science of reading movement has done much to improve instruction in foundational skills But that hard won progress may be reversed unless we also help children acquire the knowledge and vocabulary they need to understand complex text At the same time the science of learning movement has introduced many educators to evidence based teaching principles that can be effective for all students In Beyond the Science of Reading Wexler addresses a missing piece of the conversation the ways in which typical reading comprehension and writing instruction conflict with those principles Wexler also offers practical solutions for bringing science informed literacy instruction to scale and reveals why Teaching phonics isn't enough to create proficient readers Building knowledge is the key to unlocking reading comprehension Writing instruction holds untapped potential to boost literacy and learning Instruction grounded in cognitive science can narrow achievement gaps Current curriculum evaluation methods may be steering schools wrong Beyond the Science of Reading charts a bold path forward with a new way to equip all children to read with fluency understanding and joy This is an essential resource for educators policymakers parents and anyone who cares about the future of literacy and equity in the United States

Benchmarks for Science Literacy American Association for the Advancement of Science, 1994-01-06 Published to glowing praise in 1990 Science for All Americans defined the science literate American describing the knowledge skills and attitudes all students should retain from their learning experience and offered a series of

recommendations for reforming our system of education in science mathematics and technology Benchmarks for Science Literacy takes this one step further Created in close consultation with a cross section of American teachers administrators and scientists Benchmarks elaborates on the recommendations to provide guidelines for what all students should know and be able to do in science mathematics and technology by the end of grades 2 5 8 and 12 These grade levels offer reasonable checkpoints for student progress toward science literacy but do not suggest a rigid formula for teaching Benchmarks is not a proposed curriculum nor is it a plan for one it is a tool educators can use as they design curricula that fit their student s needs and meet the goals first outlined in Science for All Americans Far from pressing for a single educational program Project 2061 advocates a reform strategy that will lead to more curriculum diversity than is common today IBenchmarks emerged from the work of six diverse school district teams who were asked to rethink the K 12 curriculum and outline alternative ways of achieving science literacy for all students These teams based their work on published research and the continuing advice of prominent educators as well as their own teaching experience Focusing on the understanding and interconnection of key concepts rather than rote memorization of terms and isolated facts Benchmarks advocates building a lasting understanding of science and related fields In a culture increasingly pervaded by science mathematics and technology science literacy require habits of mind that will enable citizens to understand the world around them make some sense of new technologies as they emerge and grow and deal sensibly with problems that involve evidence numbers patterns logical arguments and technology as well as the relationship of these disciplines to the arts humanities and vocational sciences making science literacy relevant to all students regardless of their career paths If Americans are to participate in a world shaped by modern science and mathematics a world where technological know how will offer the keys to economic and political stability in the twenty first century education in these areas must become one of the nation s highest priorities Together with Science for All Americans Benchmarks for Science Literacy offers a bold new agenda for the future of science education in this country one that is certain to prepare our children for life in the twenty first century
