Fiscal Decentralisation in Emerging Economies Governance Issues OECD Development Centre,1999-04-22 This collection of experiences of fiscal decentralisation across a wide range of OECD Member and non member economies reveals lessons which are equally of relevance to both groups of countries Governance Innovations in the Asia-Pacific Region Gambhir Bhatta,Joaquin L. Gonzalez III,2019-01-15 Published in 1998 The debate on what constitutes good governance and more importantly how to attain it is not a new issue The elusive and pluralistic nature of governance ensures that much more needs to be studied about the specific incidence of good governance before a unifying theme on how exactly to develop a universal framework of application of governance can be finalized It is within this context that this book seeks to fill a vacuum in the theory practice dichotomy that it argues has dominated the debate on governance so far

Perspectives on the role of the state in economic development: Taking stock of the “Developmental State” after 35 years Kyle, Jordan,2017-01-13 This review evaluates the role of the state in development offering a new framework for understanding what capabilities states need to overcome different types of market failures This framework is employed to understand the successes and failures of state led development in Malaysia The review addresses three key questions First what do we know about developmental states and why they emerged Second what have developmental states achieved In answering this question I look not only at growth but also at structural transformation economic upgrading equity and human capability enhancement In contrast to the idea of a single East Asian model of development I find five distinct development trajectories Third how did developmental states utilize state structures to pursue development To answer this final question I examine in depth the history of state led development in Malaysia including agricultural industrial and social policies This case study sheds light on what specific institutional and political capacities helped Malaysia to improve productivity in agriculture expand the manufacturing sector and reduce inequality It also explores why Malaysia has been less successful in developing linkages with the export based manufacturing sector The Role of Government in East Asian Economic Development Masahiko Aoki,Hyung-Ki Kim,Masahiro Okuno-Fujiwara,1997-03-13 The role of government in East Asian economic development has been a continuous issue Two competing views have shaped enquiries into the source of the rapid growth high performing Asian economies and attempts to derive a general lesson for other developing economies the market friendly view according to which government intervenes little in the market and the developmental state view in which it governs the market. What these views share in common is a conception of market and government as alternative mechanisms for resource allocation. They are distinct only in their judgement of the extent to which market failures have been and ought to be remedied by direct government intervention. This collection of essays suggests a breakthrough third view: the market enhancing view. Instead of viewing government and the market as mutually exclusive substitutes, it examines the capacity of government policy to facilitate or complement private sector coordination. The book starts from the premise that private sector institutions have important comparative advantages over government in particular in their ability to process information available on site. At the same time, it recognizes that the capabilities of the private sector are more limited in developing economies. The market enhancing view thus stresses the mechanisms whereby government policy is directed at improving the ability of the private sector to solve coordination problems and overcome other market imperfections. In presenting the market enhancing view, the book recognizes the wide diversity of the roles of government across various East Asian economies including Japan, Korea, Hong Kong, Malaysia, and China, and its path dependant and developmental stage nature.

Decentralization, Local Governance, and Localizing the Sustainable Development Goals in Asia and the Pacific Bruno Carrasco, Hanif A. Rahemtulla, Rainer Rohdewohld, 2022-10-12. Since its adoption in 2015, the 2030 Agenda on Sustainable Development has shaped not only international development cooperation but also the design of national trajectories for social and economic development. In tandem with other global agendas adopted that year, such as the Paris Agreement on Climate Change and UN Habitat's New Urban Agenda, it remains the global and regional blueprint for sustainable development despite the COVID-19 pandemic. The term 'localizing the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs)' has been used to capture the importance of subnational governments for achieving national SDG agendas. However, there is little deeper analysis of the required nexus between fiscal, political, and legal arrangements for SNGs, their involvement in national policy arenas which discuss and decide on national SDG strategies, and the need for locally disaggregated data systems on the one hand, and effective SDG localization strategies on the other hand. It is this aspect which the present publication explores in greater detail by using country examples and conceptual analyses. The text will be of interest to policymakers, scholars, students, and practitioners in public policy and public administration, decentralization, and sustainable development with a focus on the Asia and Pacific region. The Open Access version of this book is available at www.taylorfrancis.com and has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivative License (CC BY-NC-ND 3.0 IGO).

Taiwan's Development Experience: Lessons on Roles of Government and Market Erik Thorbecke, Henry Wan, 2012-12-06. Taiwan's Development Experience: Lessons on Roles of Government and Market scrutinizes the main features of the Taiwanese development experience under five interrelated themes and domains: Outward orientation vs inward orientation, Sources of growth, Dynamic balanced growth process, the interaction between agricultural and non agricultural sectors. The role of government in the transition to a more market oriented economy and The potential transferability of the Taiwanese development experience to developing countries In addition to highlighting the essential contributions of papers the Editors also bring out the views and contributions under each of the above headings of two distinguished former Cornell University colleagues who are honored at the sponsoring conference T C Liu and S C Tsiang

State-owned Enterprise Reform in Vietnam C. Y. Ng, Nick J. Freeman, Frank C. H. Huynh, 1996 This study is a collaborative effort between officials and researchers from the transitional economy of Vietnam and researchers from the market economies of Japan and ASEAN The first section covers aspects of the reform process undertaken in Vietnam as perceived by Vietnamese officials and scholars and includes rare data and statistics Section two deals with relevant aspects of the process of deregulation liberalization and privatization experienced in Japan and the ASEAN countries The final section provides recommendations for consideration by Vietnam s economic reform planners Vietnam became a member of ASEAN on 1 July 1995 This study can possibly contribute to Vietnam s integration into the ASEAN economies
