A Grammar of Kharia John Peterson, 2010-12-10 The present study is an extensive description of Kharia a member of the southern branch of the Munda family spoken in central eastern India It covers virtually all areas of the grammar including phonology morphology syntax as well as a detailed discussion of the lexicon

A Grammar of the Great Andamanese Language Anvita Abbi, 2013-07-18 Winner of the 2015 Kenneth L Hale Award A Grammar of the Great Andamanese Language is the first ever detailed and exhaustive account of Great Andamanese a moribund language spoken on the Andamanese Islands belonging to India in the Bay of Bengal This important documentation covers all major areas of the grammar of Great Andamanese and gives us a first detailed look at this unique language which is on the verge of extinction Of particular interest here is the discussion of the body division class markers which play an important role throughout much of the grammar and which are documented in this volume for the first time The volume will be of interest for general linguists from the fields of linguistic typology and areal linguistics as well as those interested in South Asian languages in general

introduces readers to recent research into various properties of a number of Iranian languages. The volume consists of twenty chapters that cover a full range of Iranian linguistics including formal theoretical perspectives from a syntactic and morphological point of view, typological and functional perspectives and diachronic and areal perspectives. It also contains papers on computational linguistics and neurolinguistics as well as the modern history of lexicography in Iran. Various Iranian languages are discussed in this volume including Hawrami and Kermanji, two of the major dialects of Kurdish, Medieval Classical and Modern Persian, Balochi, Tالش and Pamir. With the exception of Persian, other Iranian languages had not received much attention in the past. Thus this work as the first volume ever published on various aspects of these languages and their linguistic properties is a valuable contribution to our understanding of a less commonly studied language family. The theoretical, descriptive and applied approaches pursued by various authors in this volume together with the colorful range of languages discussed provide a unique perspective that is appealing to researchers in different domains of linguistics and language studies.

The Semantics of Word Division in Northwest Semitic Writing Systems Robert S.D.

Crellin, 2022-02-03. Much focus in research on alphabetic writing systems has been on correspondences between graphemes and phonemes. The present study sets out to complement these by examining the linguistic denotation of markers of word division in several ancient Northwest Semitic (NWS) writing systems, namely Ugaritic, Phoenician, Moabite and Hebrew, as well as alphabetic Greek. While in Modern European languages words on the page are separated on the basis of morphosyntax, I argue that in most NWS writing systems words are divided on the basis of prosody: words are units which must be pronounced together with a single primary accent or stress, or as a single phrase. After an introduction providing the necessary theoretical groundwork, Part I considers word division in Phoenician inscriptions. I show that word division at the levels of both the prosodic word and of the prosodic phrase may be found in Phoenician and that the distributions match those of prosodic words and prosodic phrases in Tiberian Hebrew. The latter is a source where, unlike the rest of the material considered, the prosody is well represented. In Part II, word division in Ugaritic alphabetic cuneiform is analyzed. Here two word division strategies are identified corresponding broadly to two genres of text, viz. literary and administrative documents. Word division in the orthography of literary and of some other texts separates prosodic words. By contrast, in many administrative and some other documents words are separated on the basis of morphosyntax, anticipating later word division strategies in Europe by several centuries. Part III considers word division in the consonantal text of the Masoretic tradition of Biblical Hebrew. Here word division is found to mark out minimal prosodic words. I show that this word division orthography is also found in early Moabite and Hebrew inscriptions. Word division in alphabetic Greek inscriptions is the topic of Part IV. Whilst it is agreed that word division marks out prosodic words, the precise relationship of these units to the pitch accent and the rhythm of the language is not so clear, and consequently this issue is addressed in detail. Finally, the Epilogue considers the societal context of word division in each of the writing systems examined, to attempt to discern the rationales for the prosodic word division strategies adopted Contexts of and Relations between Early Writing Systems CREWS is a project funded by the European Research Council under the European Union's Horizon 2020 research and innovation program grant agreement No 677758 and based in the Faculty of Classics University of Cambridge

The Architecture of Determiners Thomas Leu, 2015 Work in morphology is typically concerned with productive word formation and regular inflection in any event with open class categories such as verbs nouns and adjectives and their various forms The Architecture of Determiners by contrast is devoted to a set of function words the closed class of determiners While it is traditionally assumed that function words are syntactically atomic Thomas Leu shows that a comparative perspective on a series of determiners each insistently vivisected into its minimal morphotactic segments reveals an anatomy with properties analogous to clausal syntax including a lexical an inflectional and left peripheral layer as well as transformational relations among constituents Leu argues that determiners are extended adjectival projections with a closed class minimal stem Leu focuses on Swiss German and German using other Germanic and non Germanic languages as a comparative domain His discussion of the internal structure of determiners includes demonstratives ch 2 distributive quantifiers ch 4 possessive and negative determiners ch 5 and interrogative determiners such as was f r ch 6 His main claim that all of these involve extended adjectival projections connects naturally to a discussion of adjectival determiner inflection in German Chapter 3 addresses the oft debated strong versus weak agreement alternation in a novel way proposing that the adjective moves within its own extended projection in a way akin to verb movement to C in the clause This accounts for the central facts of nominative and accusative inflection Chapter 7 then addresses dative and genitive morphology setting them syntactically apart from adjectival determiner inflection

The Morphology and Phonology of Exponence Jochen Trommer, 2012-09-27 Exponence refers to the mapping of morphosyntactic structure to phonological representations a research area which is not only highly controversial but also approached in fundamentally different ways in theoretical morphology and phonology This volume brings together leading specialists from morphosyntax and morphophonology The authors address common problems questions and solutions in both areas and formulate a coherent research program for exponence which integrates the central insights of the last decades and provides important new challenges for the future The book is aimed at phonologists morphologists and syntacticians of all theoretical persuasions at graduate level and above

The Colonial Bible in Australia Hilary M. Carey, 2024-10-29 This book provides an extended introduction to the scripture translations of Biraban an Awabakal man and the missionary Lancelot Threlkeld It examines Threlkeld's linguistic field work in Raiatea prior to coming to New South Wales It places the translations he undertook in the context of Australian missionary linguistics and the rapid advance of the settler frontier for which he was a key eyewitness It analyses the motivation and collaboration between Biraban and Threlkeld in the light of discoveries of new manuscripts including that of the Gospel of St Matthew as well as Threlkeld's personal diary neither of which have previously been analysed The review includes a linguistic and ethnographic analysis of the complete corpus of Biraban and Threlkeld s collaboration It includes a complete list of the Threlkeld manuscripts and the many printed editions including those available online For historical purposes it includes a copy of the unique standalone edition of the Gospel of Saint Luke presented by the editor James Fraser to the British and Foreign Bible Society The original is now in Cambridge University Library It also includes a full digitisation of Threlkeld s autograph manuscript illuminated by Annie Layard in Auckland City Library
