Bergquist, 2017-10-26 Solid binding peptides have been used increasingly as molecular building blocks in nanobiotechnology as they can direct the assembly and functionalisation of a diverse range of materials and have the ability to regulate the synthesis of nanoparticles and complex nanostructures Nanostructured materials such as sheet fibril forming peptides and helical coiled coil systems have displayed many useful properties including stimulus responsiveness modularity and multi functionality providing potential technological applications in tissue engineering antimicrobials drug delivery and nanoscale electronics The current situation with respect to self assembling peptides and bioactive matrices for regenerative medicine are reviewed as well as peptide target modeling and an examination of future prospects for peptides in these areas

The Truth about Crime Jean Comaroff, John L. Comaroff, 2016-12-05 In this book renowned anthropologists Jean and John L Comaroff make a startling but absolutely convincing claim about our modern era it is not by our arts our politics or our science that we understand ourselves it is by our crimes Surveying an astonishing range of forms of crime and policing from petty thefts to the multibillion dollar scams of too big to fail financial institutions to the collateral damage of war they take readers into the disorder of the late modern world Looking at recent transformations in the triangulation of capital the state and governance that have led to an era where crime and policing are ever more complicit they offer a powerful meditation on the new forms of sovereignty citizenship class race law and political economy of representation that have arisen To do so the Comaroffs draw on their vast knowledge of South Africa especially and its struggle to build a democracy founded on the rule of law out of the wreckage of long years of violence and oppression There they explore everything from the fascination with the supernatural in policing to the extreme measures people take to prevent home invasion drawing illuminating comparisons to the United States and United Kingdom Going beyond South Africa they offer a global criminal anthropology that attests to criminality as the constitutive fact of contemporary life the vernacular by which politics are conducted moral panics voiced and populations ruled The result is a disturbing but necessary portrait of the modern era one that asks critical new questions about how we see ourselves how we think about morality and how we are going to proceed as a global society

Police Work and Identity Andrew Faull, 2017-09-07 This is a book about the men and women who police contemporary South Africa Drawing on rich original ethnographical data it considers how officers make sense of their jobs and how they find meaning in their duties It demonstrates that the dynamics that lead to police abuses and scandals in transitional and neo liberalising regimes such as South Africa can be traced to the day to day experiences and ambitions of the average police officer It is about the stories they tell themselves about themselves and their social worlds and how these shape the order they produce through their work By focusing on police officers this book positions the individual in primacy over the organisation asking what policing looks like when motivated by the pursuit of ontological security in precarious contexts It acknowledges but downplays the importance of police culture in determining officers attitudes and behaviour and reminds readers that most officers lives are entangled in and shaped by a range of social political and cultural forces It suggests that a job in the South African Police Service SAPS is primarily just that a job Most officers join the organisation after other dreams have slipped beyond reach their presence in the Service being almost accidental But once employed they re write their self narratives and enact carefully choreographed performances to ease managerial and public pressure and to rationalize their coercive practices In an era where evidence and what works reigns supreme and where cop culture is often deemed a primary socializing force this book emphasises how officers personal histories ambitions and vulnerabilities remain central to how policing unfolds on the street

Regenerative Sanitation Thammarat Koottatep, Peter Emmanuel Cooley, Chongrak Polprasert, 2019-02-15 This book proposes Regenerative Sanitation as the next era of sanitation management and attempts to provide a foundation for the study of sanitation on the premise that sanitation is a complex and dynamic system that comprises of social ecological technological and resource systems The preconception is that sanitation will deliver maximal benefits to society only when there exists a cyclical integration of the three subsystems to enable appropriate linkages between technological design and the delivery platform so as to achieve optimal and sustained sani solutions It also calls for the rethinking of sanitation to change the narrative towards more progressive trajectories such as resource recovery and reuse rather than just amelioration It explores the contributions to food security livelihood support urban regeneration rural development and even local economies A new paradigm theory and ten principles for ensuring practical and effective sanitation solutions and management is presented In addition is a unique conceptual framework applicable to both developed and developing countries and to all stages processes and cycles of delivering sanitation solutions that could critically evaluate analyse and provide credible adequate and appropriate sanitation solutions All of which culminates in a strategic and practical application platform called Sanitation 4.0 that advocates for total rejuvenation and comprehensive overhaul with eight key strategic considerations for the implementation Regenerative Sanitation A New Paradigm For Sanitation 4.0 is inter and trans disciplinary and encourages collaboration between engineers scientists technologists social scientists and others to provide effective and practical user centred solutions It includes relevant case studies examples exercise and future research recommendations It is written as both a textbook for researchers and students as well as a practitioners guide for policymakers and professionals

Southern African Scenarios 2015 Peter Draper, Nkululeko Khumalo, 2003

Challenges and Change in Middle America Katie Willis, Cathy McIlwaine, 2014-09-25 A comprehensive introduction to the important economic social and political processes and development issues in this extremely popular region The Central American nations and those of the Caribbean including Guyana Surinam and French Guiana on the mainland share many historical processes as well as experiencing similar development problems today These include European colonialism structural adjustment small size reliance on primary production influence of the United States and moves towards democratisation While Mexico is obviously a much larger country in area economy and population terms it is included in this volume because of its close ties to the other countries in the region through processes such as trade and migration
