The Lost Cause Cory Doctorow, 2023-11-14 It's thirty years from now We're making progress mitigating climate change slowly but surely But what about all the angry old people who can't let go For young Americans a generation from now climate change isn't controversial It's just an overwhelming fact of life And so are the great efforts to contain and mitigate it Entire cities are being moved inland from the rising seas Vast clean energy projects are springing up everywhere Disaster relief the mitigation of floods and superstorms has become a skill for which tens of millions of people are trained every year The effort is global It employs everyone who wants to work Even when national politics oscillates back to right wing leaders the momentum is too great these vast programs cannot be stopped in their tracks But there are still those Americans mostly elderly who cling to their red baseball caps their grievances their huge vehicles their anger To their alternative news sources that reassure them that their resentment is right and pure and that climate change is just a giant scam And they re your grandfather your uncle your great aunt And they re not going anywhere And they re armed to the teeth The Lost Cause asks What do we do about people who cling to the belief that their own children are the enemy When in fact they re often the elders that we love At the Publisher s request this title is being sold without Digital Rights Management Software DRM applied

Making the Most of the Anthropocene Mark Denny, 2017-09 Humans have changed the Earth so profoundly that we ve ushered in the first new geologic period since the ice ages So what are we going to do about it Ever since Nobel Prize winning atmospheric chemist Paul Crutzen coined the term Anthropocene to describe our current era one in which human impact on the environment has pushed Earth into an entirely new geological epoch arguments for and against the new designation have been raging Finally an official working group of scientists was created to determine once and for all whether we humans have tossed one too many plastic bottles out the car window and wrought a change so profound as to be on par with the end of the last ice age In summer 2016 the answer came back Yes In Making the Most of the Anthropocene scientist Mark Denny tackles this hard truth head on and considers burning questions How did we reach our present technological and ecological state How are we going to cope with our uncertain future Will we come out of this or are we doomed as a species Is there anything we can do about what happens next This book explains what the Anthropocene is and why it is important offers suggestions for minimizing harm instead of fretting about an impending environmental apocalypse combines easy to grasp scientific technological economic and anthropological analyses In Making the Most of the Anthropocene there are no equations no graphs and no impenetrable jargon Instead you ll find a fascinating cast of characters including journalists from outer space peppered moths and unjustly maligned Polynesians In his bright lively voice Denny envisions a future that balances reaction and reason one in which humanity emerges bloody but unbowed and in which those of us who are prepared can make the most of the Anthropocene
