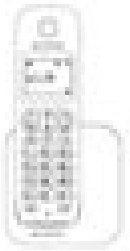
Choosing a site for the base unit and charger and if you have a troublesome

In your normal use, telephone is more safe in a residence connection, you will need to make a connection between the telephone and the telephone line, otherwise you may get interference between the telephone and the broadband, which could cause problems.



The base unit and charger (cradle) should be placed on a level surface in a position where:

- the mains adapter plug will reach an easily accessible 230v / ac outlet(not in bath or shower, never try to lengthen the mains power cable.
- the base unit's telephone line cable will reach any telephone line socket in existence (look at the charger and base unit back to find a telephone line connection).
- it is not close to cordless telephone - they can cause radio interference
- it is not close to a sink, bath or shower, or anywhere else where it might get wet.
- it is not close to other electrical equipment - fridges, washing machines, computers, fluorescent lights, televisions etc.
- it is away from hot, humid conditions and strong sunlight.

Radio signals between handset and base unit

To use your handset and base unit together, you must be able to maintain a radio link between them. Be aware that any large metal objects, like a refrigerator, a mirror, filing cabinet, etc. between the handset and the base unit may block the radio signal. Other radio equipment, like baby monitor may reduce the signal strength.

Mains power connection

IMPORTANT - The base unit and charger part must be used with the mains adaptor supplied with the unit.
Using any other adaptor will result in non-compliance with electrical and safe markings and approval given to this apparatus.

Battery safety - CAUTION

Only use the rechargeable batteries supplied with the handset (see list)* - use non-rechargeable batteries. Risk may explode and cause damage to your telephone.
