read Star Tribune Minneapolis Living in West Berlin in the 1960s often felt like living in a zoo everyone packed together behind a wall with the world always watching On the other side of the Iron Curtain East Berlin and its zoo were spacious and lush socialist utopias where everything was perfectly planned and then rarely completed Berlin's two zoos in East and West quickly became symbols of the divided city's two halves So no one was terribly surprised when the head zookeepers on either side started an animal arms race rather than stockpiling nuclear warheads they competed to have the most pandas and hippos Soon state funds were being diverted toward giving these new animals lavish welcomes worthy of visiting dignitaries West German presidential candidates were talking about zoo policy on the campaign trail And eventually politicians on both side of the Wall became convinced that if their zoo proved to be inferior that would mean their country's whole ideology was too A quirky piece of Cold War history unlike anything you've heard before The Zookeepers War is an epic tale of desperate rivalries human follies and an animal mad city in which zookeeping became a way of continuing politics by other means
