PRINCETON UNIVERSITY PRESS

2014 256 pages 23 x 28cm. 1.58Kgg A$52

More than half the world's population lives in cities, and that proportion is expected to rise to three-quarters by 2050. Urbanization is a global phenomenon, but the way cities are developing, the experience of city life, and the prospects for the future of cities vary widely from region to region.

The Atlas of Cities presents a unique taxonomy of cities that looks at different aspects of their physical, economic, social, and political structures; their interactions with each other and with their hinterlands; the challenges and opportunities they present; and where cities might be going in the future.

Each chapter explores a particular type of city--from the foundational cities of Greece and Rome and the networked cities of the Hanseatic League, through the nineteenth-century modernization of Paris and the industrialization of Manchester, to the green and "smart" cities of today.

Includes stunning info-graphics, maps, charts, tables, and photos.

Cities of Tomorrow and the City to Come Noah J. Toly, 2015-05-05 Each day the world's urban population swells by almost 200 000 With every passing week more than a million people new to cities face unexpected realities and challenges of urban life Just like the sheer volume of people in the city these challenges can be staggering As with the height and breadth of our metropolises the wonders of urban life can be breathtaking Like the city itself the questions and challenges of urban life are both sprawling and pulsing with vitality As part of Zondervan's Ordinary Theology series this volume offers a series of Christian reflections on some of the most basic and universal challenges of 21st century urban life It takes one important dimension of what it means to be human that human beings are made to be for God for others and for creation and asks What are the implications of who God made us to be for how we ought to live in our cities This book is intended for Christians facing the riddle of urban creation care discerning the shape of community life struggling with the challenges of wealth and poverty and wondering at the global influence of cities It is meant for those whose lives and livelihoods are inextricably bound up in the flourishing of their neighborhood and also for those who live in the shadow of cities Most of all it is meant for those grappling with the relationship between the cities of tomorrow and the glorious city to come      Stay in the City Mark R.
