the following are the key elements to be considered in the design of a new system:

- Requirements: The first step is to define the requirements of the system. This involves identifying the users, their needs, and the goals of the system.
- Architecture: The next step is to design the architecture of the system. This involves determining the overall structure of the system, including the components, their interactions, and the data flow.
- Implementation: The third step is to implement the system. This involves writing the code, testing the system, and deploying it to the production environment.
- Maintenance: The final step is to maintain the system. This involves monitoring the system for performance, security, and availability, and making updates as needed.
