African Fractals Modern Computing And Indigenous Design:

African Fractals Ron Eglash, 1999 Fractals are characterized by the repetition of similar patterns at ever diminishing scales Fractal geometry has emerged as one of the most exciting frontiers on the border between mathematics and information technology and can be seen in many of the swirling patterns produced by computer graphics It has become a new tool for modeling in biology geology and other natural sciences Anthropologists have observed that the patterns produced in different cultures can be characterized by specific design themes In Europe and America we often see cities laid out in a grid pattern of straight streets and right angle corners In contrast traditional African settlements tend to use fractal structures circles of circles of circular dwellings rectangular walls enclosing ever smaller rectangles and streets in which broad avenues branch down to tiny footpaths with striking geometric repetition These indigenous fractals are not limited to architecture their recursive patterns echo throughout many disparate African designs and knowledge systems Drawing on interviews with African designers artists and scientists Ron Eglash investigates fractals in African architecture traditional hairstyling textiles sculpture painting carving metalwork religion games practical craft quantitative techniques and symbolic systems He also examines the political and social implications of the existence of African fractal geometry His book makes a unique contribution to the study of mathematics African culture anthropology and computer simulations African Mathematics Abdul Karim Bangura, 2012 This is the first comprehensive text on African Mathematics that can be used to address some of the problematic issues in this area These issues include attitudes curriculum development educational change academic achievement standardized and other tests performance factors student characteristics cross cultural differences and studies literacy native speakers social class and differences equal education teaching methods knowledge level educational guidelines and policies transitional schools comparative education other subjects such as physics and social studies surveys talent educational research teacher education and qualifications academic standards teacher effectiveness lesson plans and modules teacher characteristics instructional materials program effectiveness program evaluation African culture African history Black studies class activities educational games number systems cognitive ability foreign influence and fundamental concepts What unifies the chapters in this book can appear rather banal but many mathematical insights are so obvious and so fundamental that they are difficult to absorb appreciate and express with fresh clarity Some of the more basic insights are isolated by accounts of investigators who have earned their contemporaries respect Winner of the 2012 Cecil B Currey Book Award Global Indigenous Communities Lavonna L. Lovern, 2021-05-15 Global Indigenous Communities is a wide ranging examination of global Indigenous communities that continue to suffer from colonization and assimilation issues including intergenerational trauma The scholarship is interdisciplinary it is not easily categorized as sociology anthropology ethnography or philosophy but cuts across all of these disciplines as well as Indigenous methodologies The book not only presents an academic study of Indigenous issues covering Indigenous community life religion the environment economic matters education and healthcare but also incorporates contributions from Carol Locust EdD that reflect on her lifetime of experience in Indigenous education and healthcare Each studied prism of Indigenous life is revealed to be impacted by the experience of intergenerational trauma that results from continued colonization Ultimately this book aims to bridge the communication gap between Western and Indigenous scholarship and readership artfully combining Indigenous approaches with a traditional academic style

What Do Science, Technology, and Innovation Mean from Africa? Clapperton Chakanetsa Mavhunga, 2017-06-16 Explorations of science technology and innovation in Africa not as the product of technology transfer from elsewhere but as the working of African knowledge In the STI literature Africa has often been regarded as a recipient of science technology and innovation rather than a maker of them In this book scholars from a range of disciplines show that STI in Africa is not merely the product of technology transfer from elsewhere but the working of African knowledge Their contributions focus on African ways of looking meaning making and creating The chapter authors see Africans as intellectual agents whose perspectives constitute authoritative knowledge and whose strategic deployment of both endogenous and inbound things represents an African centered notion of STI Things do not always mean the same from everywhere observes Clapperton Chakanetsa Mavhunga the volume s editor Western colonialist definitions of STI are not universalizable The contributors discuss topics that include the trivialization of indigenous knowledge under colonialism the creative labor of chimurenga the transformation of everyday surroundings into military infrastructure the role of enslaved Africans in America as innovators and synthesizers the African ethos of fixing the constitutive appropriation that makes mobile technologies African and an African innovation strategy that builds on domestic capacities The contributions describe an Africa that is creative technological and scientific showing that African STI is the latest iteration of a long process of accumulative multicultural knowledge production Contributors Geri Augusto Shadreck Chirikure Chux Daniels Ron Eglash Ellen Foster Garrick E Louis D A Masolo Clapperton Chakanetsa Mavhunga Neda Nazemi Toluwalogo Odumosu Katrien Pype Scott Remer
