Curriculum of Everything: Understanding education and curriculum José Augusto Pacheco, 2023-11-06 The Curriculum of Everything advances as the eternal future in which artificial intelligence surpasses the human capacity to do but not that of understanding and feeling. Now even the father of Artificial Intelligence worries even those bedrocks of being understanding and feeling may be at risk. Pacheco reminds us that curriculum study is a normative question now necessarily with its technological dimension. Then in a stunningly synoptic sentence that students could usefully study all semester he summarizes the curriculum as a socially culturally ideologically politically and economically constructed practice is a formal and informal dispositive of interwoven relationships between knowledge power and technology. Penetrated we become impregnated with the structures of software as Pacheco appreciates. Technological devices are powerful instruments of subjectivity production moving the subject into predefined ways of knowing. Old fashioned rhetoric alright but insightfully implying we need to return to the past when we were still sort of human before we were seduced by supranational citizenship in the software state before we became submerged in the curriculum of everything. Step back from the brink Pacheco has. Let us join him. William F Pinar Preface. The Politics of Surveillance and Response to Disease Outbreaks Sara E.

Davies, Jeremy R. Youde, 2016-02-24 The capacity to conduct international disease outbreak surveillance and share information about outbreaks quickly has empowered both State and Non State Actors to take an active role in stopping the spread of disease by generating new technical means to identify potential pandemics through the creation of shared reporting platforms. Despite all the rhetoric about the importance of infectious disease surveillance the concept itself has received relatively little critical attention from academics practitioners and policymakers. This book asks leading contributors in the field to engage with five key issues attached to international disease outbreak surveillance transparency local engagement practical needs integration and appeal to illuminate the political effect of these technologies on those who use surveillance those who respond to surveillance and those being monitored.
