Book And Childs Interests Conflict Intersections European:

The Child's Interests in Conflict Maarit Jänträ-Jareborg, 2016 The Child's Interests in Conflict addresses one of the most pressing issues of any multicultural society namely the conflicting demands on children from minority groups or children born to parents of different cultural or faith backgrounds What a family may consider to be in the child's best interest and welfare in court decisions may not be shared by society at large Each can be guided by faith culture and tradition Society can view the child as being exposed to a significant harm or to risk of harm if certain traditions are followed while in contrast parents can believe that their child is harmed or is in harm's way if that tradition is not respected Focusing on such circumstances in Europe the contributions in this book all written by internationally leading experts and with a interdisciplinary element address situations of conflict regarding a child's upbringing and education in general the shaping of a child's cultural or faith based identity underage marriages the circumcision of boys the role of faith and culture in society's placements of children outside the care of their family the role of faith in cross border child abduction and disputes over parental responsibilities Attention is paid to the case law of the European Court of Human Rights and to less well known national case law as well as to recent national legislation all of which show not only the complexity of the issues discussed but also the differing ways multicultural challenges are dealt with The book strives to answer inter alia how legal systems should navigate between the competing claims and conflicting interests without forgetting the main person to be protected namely the child and how the scope of tolerance recognition and autonomy should be defined Series European Family Law Vol 41 Subject European Law Human Rights Law Family Law Children's Law Socio Legal Studies Intersections of Nutrition: Retracing Yesterday, Redefining Tomorrow Jossie M. Migrant Academics' Narratives of Precarity and Resilience in Europe Ladan Rahbari, 2023-05-11 This volume consists of narratives of migrant academics from the Global South within academia in the Global North The autobiographic and autoethnographic contributions to this collection aim to decolonise the discourse around academic mobility by highlighting experiences of precarity resilience care and solidarity in the academic margins The authors use precarity to analyse the state of affairs in the academy from hiring practices to culturally accepted division of labour systematic forms of discrimination racialisation and gendered hierarchies etc Building on precarity as a critical concept for challenging social exclusion or forming political collectives the authors move away from conventional academic styles instead adopting autobiography and autoethnography as methods of intersectional scholarly analysis This approach creatively challenges the divisions between the system and the individual the mind and the soul the objective and the subjective as well as science theory and art This volume will be of interest not only to scholars within the field of migration studies but also to instructors and students of sociology postcolonial studies gender and race studies and critical border studies The volume s interdisciplinary approach also seeks to address university diversity officers managers key decision makers and other readers directly or indirectly involved in contemporary academia The format and style of its contributions are wide ranging including poetry and creative prose thus making it accessible and readable for a general audience

Restoring Justice and Security in Intercultural Europe Brunilda Pali, Ivo Aertsen, 2017-09-14 The intercultural contexts and new configurations in Europe offer fertile ground for social conflict tensions and threat This book challenges predominant and fear inducing approaches of justice and security as they appear in intercultural contexts and develops alternative understandings by exploring both theoretically and empirically the potential of dialogic and restorative justice oriented actions in sensitive areas of living together The book offers unique opportunities for rethinking frames of justice in security and their intersections and for reshaping European practices and policies in a more sustainable way This book is based on an innovative and exploratory action research project in four European countries which challenges the obsessive focus on security concerns the merging of the security discourse with intercultural contexts and the emphasis on technology and surveillance as a way to conceive the doing of security Both the project and the book offer another vision on what security means and how it can be done by multiplying participatory encounters between different groups in society promoting opportunities for deliberations and dialogue about alternative forms of conviviality The book is one of two volumes resulting from the work by a group of researchers in six European countries having cooperated intensively during four years in ALTERNATIVE an action research project funded under the EU Seventh Framework Programme
