Balancing Water for Humans and Nature Johan Rockstrom, 2013-06-17 Balancing Water for Humans and Nature authored by two of the world's leading experts on water management examines water flows the blood stream of both nature and society in terms of the crucial links balances conflicts and trade offs between human and environmental needs The authors argue that a sustainable future depends fundamentally on our ability to manage these trade offs and encourage long term resilience They advocate an ecohydrological approach to land water environmental problems and advance a strong reasoned argument for viewing precipitation as the gross fresh water resource ultimately responsible for sustaining all terrestrial and aquatic ecosystem services This book makes the most coherent and holistic argument to date for a new ecological approach to understanding and managing water resources for the benefit of all Basing their analysis on per capita needs for an acceptable nutritional diet the authors analyse predictions of the amounts of water needed for global food production by 2050 and identify potential sources Drawing on small scale experiences in Africa and Asia they also cover the vulnerability of the semi arid tropics through a simplified model of green and blue water scarcity components

The Oxford Handbook of Food, Water and Society John Anthony Allan,Brendan Bromwich,Anthony Colman,Martin Keulertz,2019 Society s greatest use of water is in food production which makes farmers central to global environmental management Current food value chains

however do not enable farmers to both feed a growing population and steward natural resources Through a carefully curated collection of articles written by water and food system scientists and professionals including farmers this Oxford Handbook considers the interconnected issues of real water in the environment and virtual water in food value chains and investigates society's influence on both This perspective highlights considerable challenges for food security and environmental stewardship in the context of ongoing global change The book discusses these issues by region and by selected commodities emphasizing innovation needed for the food system to meet future challenges

The Water We Eat

Marta Antonelli, Francesca Greco, 2015-04-11 This book pursues a comprehensive multidisciplinary approach in order to analyze the relationship between water and food security It demonstrates that most of the world's economies lack sufficient water resources to secure their populations food requirements and are thus virtual importers of water One of the most inspiring cases which this book is rooted in is Italy the third largest net virtual water importer on earth The book also shows that the sustainability of water depends on the extent to which societies recognize and take into account its value and contribution to agricultural production Due to the large volumes of water required for food production water and food security are in fact inextricably linked Contributions from leading international experts and scholars in the field use the concepts of virtual water and water footprints to explain this relationship with an eye to the empirical examples of wine tomato and pasta production in Italy This book provides a valuable resource for all researchers professionals policymakers and everyone else interested in water and food security
