Bank Selection Criteria:

Customers Bank Selection Criteria Dawit Tekletsadik, 2014-11-19 Commercial banks need to identify the criteria on which potential customers determine their bank selection decision in order to plan an appropriate marketing strategy for keeping present customers and attracting new ones. Consequently, the identification of factors deemed important to potential bank customers is a crucial step towards winning the battle. Therefore, this study is particularly intended to examine basic motivational factors of customer's bank selection criteria of private commercial banks in Addis Ababa and how customers rank the factors based on their importance level to patronize banks and banking services. It also intended to present an analysis of demographic nature of the customer in the relative importance of choice criteria in respect of selecting a bank and to elicit the opinion of bank customers on any extra services needed to be offered by banks. The Congruence

This issue raises the importance of quality in the services provided by banks as perceived by customers. This thesis for the first time investigates bank selection criteria of Turkish and Greek Cypriot citizens in Cyprus who benefit from bank services by using bank selection criteria instrument and incorporating SERVQUAL instrument of Parasuraman et al 1988 as bank selection criteria. Survey results of 350 respondents show that there aren't huge differences between Turkish and Greek Cypriots in giving priorities for bank selection criteria. Results from this study reveal that the most important bank selection criteria for Turkish Cypriots are availability of internet banking where it is paying higher interest on saving accounts for Greek Cypriots. Finally, bank selection criteria significantly differed between Turkish and Greek Cypriots at only alpha 0.10 level where SERVQUAL instrument of Parasuraman et al 1988 as bank selection criteria did not. A Survey in Bank Selection Criteria of Greek Small and Medium-sized Companies respondents Friedman s test Pearson s chi square test and factor analysis was carried out on the data The results of the analysis show that Maldivian banking customers are able to differentiate between various bank selection criteria and have a perceived ranking of these factors according to its significance to them The results further show that Maldivian banking customers value trustworthiness followed by availability of automated teller machines and cards above all the other criteria Furthermore evidence show that Maldivian banking customers are highly aware of existence of Islamic banking but posses an average level of understanding of its principles This understanding is especially poor when it comes to specific products Similarly there is also evidence of a relationship between customers Islamic banking knowledge level and their decision to patronize Maldives Islamic Bank
