Moriarty, 2025-03-26 The fourth edition of Criminal Justice Technology in the 21st Century comes just about five years after the COVID 19 pandemic when technology took a more prominent role in our everyday lives and more importantly in the criminal justice system Ideas that once were mere thoughts from academics pondering the future have become everyday realities While most areas of life came to a standstill as the pandemic ensued the criminal justice system could not stop Crime adapts more seamlessly than other aspects of society and as such the criminal justice system needed to adapt as well The contributing authors were asked to consider the pandemic and its impact on evolving technology and advancements to address crime Likewise other societal concerns focusing on law enforcement and its questionable use of force at times have escalated the need for technology to ensure that over policing in minority neighborhoods and accountability is established or not to deescalate violence whether police brutality or protester police violence The impact of technology remains to be seen but there is real hope that such technology can begin to shed light on what is happening in these volatile situations Either the current contributors have updated their chapters from the Third Edition or there are new contributors focusing on the abovementioned issues This fourth edition with more than 20 contributors highlights the most current thinking about criminal justice technology. The book is longer than the previous editions but has fewer chapters. This is the result of paring down what is included in this new edition. The hope is that these chapters will be the most relevant and useful to both the expert and the neophyte. Criminal justice technology will continue to advance and we must keep abreast of new trends.

Community Organizing and Community Building for Health and Social Equity, 4th edition Meredith Minkler, Patricia Wakimoto, 2021-12-10

The fourth edition of Community Organizing and Community Building for Health and Social Equity provides both classic and recent contributions to the field with a special accent on how these approaches can contribute to health and social equity. The 23 chapters offer conceptual frameworks, skill building, and case studies in areas like coalition building, organizing by and with women of color, community assessment, and the power of the arts, the Internet, social media, and policy and media advocacy in such work. The use of participatory evaluation and strategies and tips on fundraising for community organizing also are presented, as are the ethical challenges that can arise in this work and helpful tools for anticipating and addressing them. Also included are study questions for use in the classroom. Many of the book's contributors are leaders in their academic fields, from public health and social work to community psychology and urban and regional planning and to social and political science. One author was the 44th president of the United States himself, a former community organizer in Chicago who reflects on his earlier vocation and its importance. Other contributors are inspiring community leaders whose work on the ground and in partnership with us outsiders highlights both the power of collaboration and the cultural humility and other skills required to do it well. Throughout this book and particularly in the case studies and examples shared, the role of context is critical and never far from view. Included here most recently are the horrific and continuing toll of the COVID-19 pandemic and a long overdue yet still greatly circumscribed national reckoning with systemic racism in the aftermath of the brutal police killing of yet another unarmed Black person and then another and another seemingly without end. In many chapters, the authors highlight different facets of the Black Lives Matter movement that took on new life across the country and the world in response to these atrocities. In other chapters, the existential threat of climate change and grave threats to democracy also are underscored.
