

The background of the entire image is a detailed, high-contrast black and white illustration of a futuristic city built on the surface of Mars. The city features a complex network of buildings, roads, and infrastructure, including several large, rounded structures that could be domes or specialized habitats. In the upper portion of the image, a massive, rugged crater or canyon stretches across the horizon under a dark, star-filled sky. The overall aesthetic is one of advanced space exploration and urban planning in a hostile environment.
