Brain Vision Memory Brain Vision Memory:

Brain, Vision, Memory Charles G. Gross, 1999-07-26 In these engaging tales describing the growth of knowledge about the brain from the early Egyptians and Greeks to the Dark Ages and the Renaissance to the present time Gross attempts to answer the question of how the discipline of neuroscience evolved into its modern incarnation through the twists and turns of history Charles G Gross is an experimental neuroscientist who specializes in brain mechanisms in vision He is also fascinated by the history of his field In these tales describing the growth of knowledge about the brain from the early Egyptians and Greeks to the present time he attempts to answer the question of how the discipline of neuroscience evolved into its modern incarnation through the twists and turns of history The first essay tells the story of the visual cortex from the first written mention of the brain by the Egyptians to the philosophical and physiological studies by the Greeks to the Dark Ages and the Renaissance and finally to the modern work of Hubel and Wiesel The second essay focuses on Leonardo da Vinci's beautiful anatomical work on the brain and the eye was Leonardo drawing the body observed the body remembered the body read about or his own dissections The third essay derives from the question of whether there can be a solely theoretical biology or biologist it highlights the work of Emanuel Swedenborg the eighteenth century Swedish mystic who was two hundred years ahead of his time The fourth essay entails a mystery how did the largely ignored brain structure called the hippocampus minor come to be and why was it so important in the controversies that swirled about Darwin's theories The final essay describes the discovery of the visual functions of the temporal and parietal lobes The author traces both developments to nineteenth century observations of the effect of temporal and parietal lesions in monkeys observations that were forgotten and subsequently rediscovered

Visual Analogy Barbara Maria Stafford,2001-08-24 A groundbreaking book exploring the discovery of sameness in otherness Recuperating a topic once central to philosophy theology rhetoric and aesthetics this groundbreaking book explores the discovery of sameness in otherness Analogy poses an intriguingly ancient and modern conundrum How in the face of cultural diversity can a unique someone or something be perceived as like what it is not This book is for anyone puzzled by why today as Barbara Maria Stafford claims we possess no language for talking about resemblance only an exaggerated awareness of difference Well designed images Stafford argues reveal the mind's intuitive leaps to connect known with unknown experience The first of four wide ranging chapters paints a challenging overview of several pressing contemporary issues Cloning legal controversies about social inequity identity politics electronic copying and the mimicry of virtual reality expose the need for a nuanced theory of similitude The second examines the historical tug of war between analogy and allegory or disanalogy Stafford provocatively suggests that since the Romantic Era we have been living in polarizingly allegorical times The third roots this divisiveness within the momentous shift from a magical universe modeled on sexual bonds to an engineered world built of discrete automated units Finally recent developments in computational brain research notwithstanding major phenomenological questions about memory emotion intelligence and awareness beckon In the fourth chapter Stafford intervenes in the consciousness debates to propose a humanistic cognitive science with bridging analogy at its artful core

Face Value Alexander Todorov, 2017-05-30 The scientific story of first impressions and why the snap character judgments we make from faces are irresistible but usually incorrect We make up our minds about others after seeing their faces for a fraction of a second and these snap judgments predict all kinds of important decisions For example politicians who simply look more competent are more likely to win elections Yet the character judgments we make from faces are as inaccurate as they are irresistible in most situations we would guess more accurately if we ignored faces So why do we put so much stock in these widely shared impressions What is their purpose if they are completely unreliable In this book Alexander Todorov one of the world's leading researchers on the subject answers these questions as he tells the story of the modern science of first impressions Drawing on psychology cognitive science neuroscience computer science and other fields this accessible and richly illustrated book describes cutting edge research and puts it in the context of the history of efforts to read personality from faces Todorov describes how we have evolved the ability to read basic social signals and momentary emotional states from faces using a network of brain regions dedicated to the processing of faces Yet contrary to the nineteenth century pseudoscience of physiognomy and even some of today's psychologists faces don't provide us a map to the personalities of others Rather the impressions we draw from faces reveal a map of our own biases and stereotypes A fascinating scientific account of first impressions Face Value explains why we pay so much attention to faces why they lead us astray and what our judgments actually tell us

The Evolution of Memory Systems Elisabeth A. Murray, Steven P. Wise, Kim S. Graham, 2017 The Evolution of Memory Systems sets out a bold and exciting new theory about memory It proposes that several memory systems arose during evolution and that they did so for the same general reason to transcend problems and exploit opportunities encountered by specific ancestors at particular times and places in the distant past
