

Alien Encounters

Background: In their year 2000, scientists at the SETI Institute and the University of California, Berkeley, announced that they had discovered a signal from an alien civilization. The signal was a series of pulses that appeared to be coming from a star system about 150 light years away. The signal was detected by the SETI@home project, which is a distributed computing project that uses volunteers' computers to search for signals from alien civilizations. The signal was detected on August 15, 2000, and was named "Wow!" because of its strength and clarity. The signal was detected by a radio telescope at the SETI Institute's Big Ear radio telescope in Ohio. The signal was a series of pulses that appeared to be coming from a star system about 150 light years away. The signal was detected by the SETI@home project, which is a distributed computing project that uses volunteers' computers to search for signals from alien civilizations.

Assignment: Write a story about the alien encounter. Use the information you have learned about the signal and the SETI@home project to create a believable story. Your story should be at least 100 words long and should include the following elements: the name of the alien civilization, the location of the signal, the date of the encounter, and the name of the person who discovered the signal.

Think About It!
