The Buying and Selling of American Education Susan Tave Zelman, Margaret Erlandson Sorensen, 2022-10-17 American educators and policy makers have grown increasingly frustrated in recent decades as attempts to enhance equity and bring American student learning to the level experienced in other countries have faltered Recent efforts have included the standards movement as well as broad expansion of school choice These endeavors which largely rely on market based thinking assume that individual schools and teachers have the will and ability to do better if only prodded by competition and other sticks and carrots Such attempts overlook flaws in a system developed to provide a common education while also subdividing resources to maintain privilege for some This book traces the history of American education as a foundation to examining persistent weaknesses in education today Meaningful reform and improvement which are urgent needs will require broad systemic change based on the engagement of many sectors This book offers a vision for such reform Following successful models in other countries suggests options for moving away from current deeply enmeshed systemic inequities to a system better suited to meeting a broad range of educational needs A portfolio of diverse schools regionally administered and held accountable for student learning presents an option for moving away from inequitable district structures and scatter shot choice options The critical questions are how to get there from here and do we have the will to do so The book concludes with suggestions on how to start the process
