An Illustrated History Of New Mexico:

An Illustrated History of New Mexico Thomas E. Chávez, 2002-07-15 Combines more than two hundred photographs and a concise history to create an engaging panoramic view of New Mexico's fascinating past Illustrated History of New Mexico Benjamin Maurice Read, Eleuterio Baca, 1912 An Illustrated History of New Mexico, 1895 New Mexico Past and Future Thomas E. Chavez, 2006 This new perspective on the colorful history of New Mexico includes the stories of many of the people who have spent their lives in the area from before the arrival of Europeans in the sixteenth century through the present day Illustrated History of New Mexico Benjamin M. Read, 2015-06-11 Excerpt from Illustrated History of New Mexico The author of this work entered public life some years ago as a school teacher filling for the first time the honored post of preceptor of the College of the Christian Brothers Santa Fe New Mexico in the year 1876 and continuing thereafter for several years in charge of the various public schools of the Capital Thus it was that he came through personal observation and after many and very careful examinations of the several writings on history to notice that remarkable differences and striking contradictions exist among some of the English speaking authors in their respective narratives of historical events whenever it is a question of the discovery of America by Columbus the conquest colonization and christianization of Mexico by Cortes and of South America by Almagro and the Pizarro brothers The author of this work attributes the discrepancies and contradictions of the authors mentioned rather to the fact that they had perforce to depend absolutely on the translations which are supposed to have been made from the original works and original documents by translators who by reason of their never having seen the said originals and also because of their not being Spanish scholars have not in almost every instance rendered into correct English the spirit of the original texts changing quite often the substance of the language of the first authors whence the result has been that no two works of the same history translated from the Spanish into English by different translators can be found to agree with one another and much less with the original works This statement is easily proved by simple comparisons of the works of these writers with the original accounts given by the conquerors and first authors Upon comparison it will be readily seen that although they give long lists of the first authors and even of the discoverers and conquerors of New Mexico they have simply had former translations retranslated About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works An Illustrated History of New Mexico Thomas E. An Illustrated History of New Mexico Lewis Publishing Company, 2016-11-12 Excerpt from An Illustrated History of New Mexico Containing a History of This Important Section of the Great Southwest From the Earliest Period of Its Discovery to the Present Time Together With Glimpses of Its Auspicious Future Cibola is the name of the province of the pueblo region The pueblo towns did not seem to be mutually interdependent in their government The government of each was republican the supreme governing body in each being elected by the people They were not Aztecs The roofs of the houses consisted of unhewn pines covered with a thick coating of clay so as to form terraces The walls were perfectly smooth The central portions of a pueblo building were much higher than the outer extending sometimes to a height of fifty feet or more These buildings were sometimes in groups connected by lower structures One group measured 800 feet or more north and south and about 250 feet east and west There seems to have been courts within the enclosure These buildings Had their doors only in the roof Or at least high up and entry was always made by ladder a custom derived probably from the effort to make the building a kind of fort difficult to enter or destroy in case of war About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works
