Fostering Children's Mathematical Power Arthur Baroody, Arthur J. Baroody, Jesse L.M. Wilkins, Ronald T. Coslick, 1998-09-01 Teachers have the responsibility of helping all of their students construct the disposition and knowledge needed to live successfully in a complex and rapidly changing world To meet the challenges of the 21st century students will especially need mathematical power a positive disposition toward mathematics curiosity and self confidence facility with the processes of mathematical inquiry problem solving reasoning and communicating and well connected mathematical knowledge an understanding of mathematical concepts procedures and formulas This guide seeks to help teachers achieve the capability to foster children's mathematical power the ability to excite them about mathematics help them see that it makes sense and enable them to harness its might for solving everyday and extraordinary problems The investigative approach attempts to foster mathematical power by making mathematics instruction process based understandable or relevant to the everyday life of students Past efforts to reform mathematics instruction have focused on only one or two of these aims whereas the investigative approach accomplishes all three By teaching content in a purposeful context an inquiry based fashion and a meaningful manner this approach promotes children's mathematical learning in an interesting thought provoking and comprehensible way This teaching guide is designed to help teachers appreciate the need for the investigative approach and to provide practical advice on how to make this approach happen in the classroom It not only dispenses information but also serves as a catalyst for exploring conjecturing about discussing and contemplating the teaching and learning of mathematics

About Teaching Mathematics Marilyn Burns,2000 About Teaching Mathematics quickly became a much sought after resource upon its publication in 1992 With more than 200 000 copies in print it presents information necessary for teachers to teach math through problem solving to understand the math they are responsible for teaching and to understand how children best learn math Now Marilyn Burns has updated and expanded this important resource including an entirely new fifty page section Mathematical Discussion Here she addresses many of the problems and activities in the text presenting the underlying mathematics for each as well as solutions Another new section Extending Multiplication and Division addresses how to help students deal with large number computation Burns has also made numerous changes to the section on fractions and has clarified and reorganized points throughout the book to make her ideas as clear and accessible as possible About Teaching Mathematics now gives teachers an even better guide for making appropriate and effective instructional decisions It is an essential resource for all teachers of K 8 mathematics
