

Tort Law

Tort law is the body of laws that enables people to seek compensation for wrongs committed against them. When someone's actions cause some type of harm to another, whether it be physical harm to another person, or harm to someone's property or reputation, the harmed or injured person or entity may seek damages through the court.

Damages are a monetary award ordered by the court to be paid to an injured party, by the party at fault. Damages may be awarded in compensation for loss of, or damage to, personal or real property, for an injury, or for a financial loss.

The types of damages that may be awarded by the court for civil wrongs, called "tortious conduct," of an individual or entity include:

- Reimbursement for property loss or property damage
- Medical expenses
- Pain and suffering
- Loss of earning capacity
- Punitive damages: penal, disciplinary, corrective, correctional, retributive.

Tort Liability

The legal term tort refers to an action in which one person or entity causes injury, harm, or damage to another person or entity. A tort liability may occur as a result of intentional acts, a negligent act, a failure to act when the individual had a duty to act, or a violation of statutes or laws. The individual who commits the tortious act (the act leading to the tort liability claim) is called the "tortfeasor," and is the defendant in this type of civil lawsuit. Such a defendant is generally held liable for damages or harm suffered by the plaintiff, as a result of the defendant's acts.

In many tort cases, the damages or injury suffered by the plaintiff do not have to be physical injury. A defendant in a tort liability case, who is found to be liable for his or her tortious acts, may be ordered to pay damages for harm, such as violation of personal rights, pain and suffering, and emotional distress.

Types of Tort

There are a number of specific types of tort that form the basis of the majority of civil lawsuits. These include, among others:

- Negligence
