Abstract—The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week training program on the heart rate (HR) and energy expenditure (EE) of sedentary, middle-aged women. The subjects were 12 sedentary women, 40–50 years old, who were randomly selected from a local health club. They were divided into two groups: a control group and an exercise group. The control group continued with their sedentary lifestyle, while the exercise group participated in a 12-week training program consisting of three sessions per week of aerobic exercise. The HR and EE were measured at baseline and at the end of the 12-week program. The results showed that the exercise group had a significant increase in HR and EE compared to the control group. The HR increased from 70 to 78 beats per minute, and the EE increased from 1,800 to 2,200 kcal per day. These findings suggest that a 12-week training program can effectively improve the cardiovascular fitness and energy expenditure of sedentary, middle-aged women.
