Urban Theory Beyond the West Tim Edensor, Mark Jayne, 2012-03-12 Since the late eighteenth century academic engagement with political economic social cultural and spatial changes in our cities has been dominated by theoretical frameworks crafted with reference to just a small number of cities in the Global North This volume seeks to redress that balance and focuses on theoretical engagements with cities beyond the West

Beyond Jefferson Christa Dierksheide, 2024-10-29 A global history of how Thomas Jefferson's descendants navigated the legacy of the Declaration of Independence on both sides of the color line The Declaration of Independence identified two core principles independence and equality that defined the American Revolution and the nation forged in 1776 Jefferson believed that each new generation of Americans would have to look to the experience of the present rather than the wisdom of the past to interpret and apply these principles in new and progressive ways Historian Christa Dierksheide examines the lives and experiences of a rising generation of Jefferson's descendants Black and white illuminating how they redefined equality and independence in a world that was half a century removed from the American Revolution The Hemingses and Randolphs moved beyond Jefferson and his eighteenth century world leveraging their own ideas and experiences in nineteenth century Britain China Cuba Mexico and the American West to claim independence and equal rights in an imperial and slaveholding republic

Building the Borderlands: A Transnational History of Irrigated Cotton along the Mexico-Texas Border Casey Walsh, 2008 Cotton crucial to the economy of the American South has also played a vital role in the making of the Mexican north The Lower Rio Bravo Rio Grande Valley irrigation zone on the border with Texas in northern Tamaulipas Mexico was the centerpiece of the Cardenas government's effort to make cotton the basis of the national economy This irrigation district built and settled by Mexican Americans repatriated from Texas was a central feature of Mexico's effort to control and use the waters of the international river for irrigated agriculture Drawing on previously unexplored archival sources Casey Walsh discusses the relations among various groups comprising the social field of cotton production in the borderlands By describing the complex relationships among these groups Walsh contributes to a clearer understanding of capitalism and the state of transnational economic forces of agricultural and water issues in the U S Mexican borderlands and of the environmental impacts of economic development Building the Borderlands crosses a number of disciplinary thematic and regional frontiers integrating perspectives and literature from the United States and Mexico from anthropology and history and from political economic and cultural studies Walsh's important transnational study will enjoy a wide audience among scholars of Latin American and Western U S history the borderlands and environmental and agricultural history as well as anthropologists and others interested in the environment and water rights
