

Biology 1802 Lab Schedule 2 Introduction To Biological Chemistry & Cellular Structure

Introduction

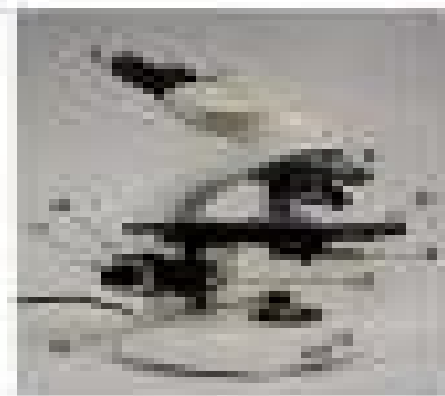

This laboratory is concerned with the study of cells. While most structures are relatively large and easy to study, their internal details are sufficiently small to require techniques. Techniques used to study cellular structure and function have led to the development of many new drugs and treatments.

Learning Objectives - Part 1: Introduction to the Cell (Introduction to the Cell)

Students will be able to identify the following structures and functions of the cell:

1. The cell membrane, by means of function, all structures of the cell.
2. Name the various structures of the cell and describe their functions and relationships to the cell.
3. The cell membrane structure and function of the cell and all of the cell.
4. Name the various structures of the cell and describe their functions and relationships to the cell.
5. Name the various structures of the cell and describe their functions and relationships to the cell.
