Angelides, Phivos Mylonas, 2008-01-04

Realizing the growing importance of semantic adaptation and personalization of media the editors of this book brought together leading researchers and practitioners of the field to discuss the state of the art and explore emerging exciting developments This volume comprises extended versions of selected papers presented at the 1st International Workshop on Semantic Media Adaptation and Personalization SMAP 2006 which took place in Athens in December 2006 Semantics in Adaptive and Personalized Services Manolis Wallace, Ioannis Anagnostopoulos, Phivos Mylonas, Mária Bieliková, 2010-02-28 Semantics in Adaptive and Personalised Services initially strikes one as a specific and perhaps narrow domain Yet a closer examination of the term reveals much more On one hand there is the issue of semantics Nowadays this most often refers to the use of OWL RDF or some other XML based ontology description language in order to represent the entities of problem Still semantics may also very well refer to the consideration of the meanings and concepts rather than arithmetic measures regardless of the representation used On the other hand there is the issue of adaptation i e automated re configuration based on some context This could be the network and device context the application context or the user context we refer to the latter case as personalization From a different perspective there is the issue of the point of view from which to examine the topic There is the point of view of tools referring to the algorithms and software tools one can use the point of view of the methods referring to the abstract methodologies and best practices one can follow as well as the point of view of applications referring to successful and pioneering case studies that lead the way in research and innovation Or at least so we thought

Based on the above reasoning the editors identified key researchers and practitioners in each of the aforementioned categories and invited them to contribute a corresponding work to this book. However, as the authors' contributions started to arrive, the editors also started to realize that although these categories participate in each chapter to different degrees, none of them can ever be totally obsolete from them. Moreover, it seems that theory and methods are inherent in the development of tools and applications, and inversely, the application is also inherent in the motivation and presentation of tools and methods.

New Developments in Formal Languages and Applications Gemma

Bel-Enguix, M Dolores Jiménez-López, Carlos Martín-Vide, 2008-04-11

The theory of formal languages is widely accepted as the backbone of theoretical computer science. It mainly originated from mathematics, combinatorics, algebra, mathematical logic, and generative linguistics. Later, new specializations emerged from areas of either computer science: concurrent and distributed systems, computer graphics, artificial life, biology, plant development, molecular genetics, linguistics, parsing, text searching, or mathematics, cryptography. All human problem-solving capabilities can be considered in a certain sense as a manipulation of symbols and structures composed by symbols, which is actually the stem of formal language theory. Language in its two basic forms, natural and artificial, is a particular case of a symbol system. This wide range of motivations and inspirations explains the diverse applicability of formal language theory, and all these together explain the very large number of monographs and collective volumes dealing with formal language theory. In 2004, Springer Verlag published the volume Formal Languages and Applications, edited by Carlos Martín-Vide, V. Mitrana, and G. Păun, in the series Studies in Fuzziness and Soft Computing 148, which was aimed at serving as an overall course aid and self-study material, especially for PhD students in formal language theory.

and applications Actually the volume emerged in such a context it contains the core information from many of the lectures livered to the students of the International PhD School in Formal Languages and Applications organized since 2002 by the Research Group on Mathem ical Linguistics from Rovira i Virgili University Tarragona Spain
