Bilingual Sentence Processing Roberto Heredia, J. Altarriba, 2002-07-25 Bilingual Sentence Processing Eva M. Fernández, 2003-03-27 The cross linguistic differences documented in studies of relative clause attachment offer an invaluable opportunity to examine a particular aspect of bilingual sentence processing Do bilinguals process their two languages as if they were monolingual speakers of each This volume provides a review of existing research on relative clause attachment showing that speakers of languages like English attach relative clauses differently than do speakers of languages like Spanish Fernández reports the findings of an investigation with monolinguals and bilinguals tested using speeded on line and unspeeded off line methodology with materials in both English and Spanish The experiments reveal similarities across the groups when the procedure is speeded but differences with unspeeded questionnaires The monolinguals replicate the standard cross linguistic differences while bilinguals have language independent preferences determined by language dominance bilinguals process stimuli in either of their languages according to the general preferences of monolinguals of their dominant language

The Psychology of Multilingualism Lajos Göncz, 2021-07-05 Multilingualism including bilingualism has become internationally important today because of the increasing interdependence between countries regions and continents and because of increasing concern with preserving linguistic and cultural diversity This book is a comprehensive introduction to research on multilingualism Although psychological aspects predominate it provides a multidisciplinary perspective on the individual and societal consequences of multilingualism bringing together insights from linguistics pedagogy cognitive neuroscience sociolinguistics and psycholinguistics The book underlines the normality of speaking and using more than one language and serves to dispel many myths and fears in this regard Besides theoretical issues it also provides recommendations on how to promote multilingualism in children from a dominant language group and how to maintain all languages of students from ethnic communities by means of education Cognitive Linguistic Approaches to Teaching Vocabulary and Phraseology Frank Boers, Seth Lindstromberg, 2008-08-27 Mastering the vocabulary of a foreign language is one of the most daunting tasks that language learners face The immensity of the task is underscored by the realisation that it is not only single words but also numerous standardised phrases idioms collocations etc that need to be acquired There is thus a clear need for instructional methods that help learners tackle this task and yet few proposals for vocabulary instruction have so far gone beyond techniques for rote learning and familiar means of promoting of noticing The reason for this is that vocabulary and phraseology have long been assumed arbitrary The volume offers a long overdue alternative by exploring and exploiting the presence of linguistic motivation or systematic non arbitrariness in the lexicon The first half of the volume reports ample empirical evidence of the pedagogical effectiveness of presenting vocabulary to learners as non arbitrary The data reported indicate that the proposed instructional methods can benefit when both the nature of the target lexis and the basic cognitive orientations of particular learners are taken into account The first half of the book mostly targets lexis that has already attracted a fair amount of attention from Cognitive Linguists in the past e g phrasal verbs and figurative idioms The second half broadens the scope considerably by revealing the non arbitrariness of diverse other lexical patterns including collocations and word partnerships generally This is achieved by recognising some long neglected dimensions of linguistic motivation etymological and phonological motivation in particular Concrete suggestions are made for putting the non arbitrary nature of words and phrases to good use in instructed language learning The volume is therefore of interest not only to applied linguists and researchers in Second Language Acquisition Foreign Language Teaching but also to second and foreign language teaching professionals Form-Meaning Connections in Second Language Acquisition Bill VanPatten, Jessica Williams, Susanne Rott, Mark Overstreet, 2004-07-21 This volume addresses theoretical and research domains related to questions of how forms meaning connections are initiated processed and stored and what internal and external factors may affect these mappings
