Early modern war narratives and the Revolt in the Low Countries

Raymond Fagel, Leonor Álvarez Francés, Beatriz Santiago Belmonte, 2020-04-02 By the end of the sixteenth century stories about the Revolt in the Low Countries c 1567 1648 had begun to spread throughout Europe These stories had very different authors with very different intentions Over time the plethora of sources and interpretations faded away leaving us with opposing canonical narratives The Dutch and Spanish national myths were forged on the basis of two visions of the conflict as a liberation war against cruel Spanish oppressors and as a glorious episode in the history of the Spanish Empire This volume delves into the early seemingly anecdotal stories of the war to map the great variety and interconnection of the narratives It asks such questions as how did the Jesuits write about the Revolt what can we find in Italian chronicles and how did the war look from the perspective of a local nobleman or a Spanish commander

Trials of the self Elwin

Hofman, 2021-04-27 This highly original study brings together the disparate histories of murder and enlightenment prostitution and the cult of nature sodomy and sentimentalism in order to retell the story of the making of the modern self It suggests that the history of the self needs to attend more to its class dimensions and puts this insight into practice by examining the influence of the criminal courts in spreading and negotiating changing ideas of the self Using criminal interrogations and witness statements Trials of the self shows that an increasing stress on psychological depth in the late eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries was not only important for elites but also for common and illiterate people
