Globalization is often thought of as an abstract process that happens out there in the world. But people are ultimately the driving force of global change, and people have bodies that are absent from current conversations about globalization. The original scholarly research and first person accounts of embodiment in this volume explore the role of bodies in the flows of people, money, commodities, and ideas across borders. From Zumba fitness classes to martial arts to fashion blogs and the meanings of tattooing, the contributors examine migrating body practices and ideals that stretch across national boundaries. The Robots Are Coming! Andres Oppenheimer, 2019-04-30. Staying true to his trademark journalistic approach, Andres Oppenheimer takes his readers on yet another journey, this time across the globe in a thought provoking search to understand what the future holds for today's jobs in the foreseeable age of automation. The Robots Are Coming centers around the issue of jobs and their future in the context of rapid automation and the growth of online products and services. As two of Oppenheimer's interviewees, both experts in technology and economics from Oxford University, indicate, forty-seven percent of existing jobs are at risk of becoming automated or rendered obsolete by other technological changes in the next twenty years. Oppenheimer examines current changes in several fields, including the food business, legal work, banking, and medicine, speaking with experts in the field and citing articles and literature on automation in various areas of the workforce.

He contrasts the perspectives of techno optimists with those of techno negativists and generally attempts to find a middle ground between an alarmist vision of the future and one that is too uncritical A self described cautious optimist Oppenheimer believes that technology will not create massive unemployment but rather will drastically change what work looks like
