Battling Bias The Struggle For Identity And Community On College Campuses:

Battling Bias Ruth Sidel, 1995-08-01 Politicians philosophers and academics have spent countless hours debating the issues of greatest concern on college campuses today multiculturalism political correctness race relations sexual politics and gender But what has been noticeably missing from their discussions are the voices of the students themselves Battling Bias is one of the first books to offer an analysis of their actions and reactions on their own college campuses In this work a wide variety of students from both public and private schools across the country share their pain and anger their concerns and experiences and the impact on their lives of the surge of conflicts so omnipresent on campuses today Sidel explores these issues against a backdrop of our current economic problems and polarities our increasingly diverse society and changing patterns of immigration She discusses the key problems for American higher education including who should have access to it and offers solutions This unique contribution to the continuing debate on the role of education in a democratic society should be required reading for anyone interested in the future of our schools and of our nation Too Much to Ask

Elizabeth Higginbotham, 2003-01-14 In the 1960s increasing numbers of African American students entered predominantly White colleges and universities in the northern and western United States Too Much to Ask focuses on the women of this pioneering generation examining their educational strategies and experiences and exploring how social class family upbringing and expectations their own and others prepared them to achieve in an often hostile setting Drawing on extensive questionnaires and in depth interviews with Black women graduates sociologist Elizabeth Higginbotham sketches the patterns that connected and divided the women who integrated American higher education before the era of affirmative action Although they shared educational goals for example family resources to help achieve those goals varied widely according to their social class Across class lines however both the middle and working class women Higginbotham studied noted the importance of personal initiative and perseverance in helping them to combat the institutionalized racism of elite institutions and to succeed Highlighting the actions Black women took to secure their own futures as well as the challenges they faced in achieving their goals Too Much to Ask provides a new perspective for understanding the complexity of racial interactions in the post civil rights era The New Citizenship

Craig A Rimmerman, 2018-05-04 Why do so many Americans fail to participate in their communities affairs What role should the citizenry play in our political system In addressing these concerns this revised and updated text evaluates the dilemma of participation civility and stability at a time when civic indifference is a national problem In addition to outlining the sources of this indifference The New Citizenship suggests ways in which Americans can conquer their apathy toward government In this fourth edition author and Dilemmas in American Politics series editor Craig A Rimmerman provides new material on ACORN the 2008 presidential election the Obama presidency and the impact of these recent events for college students and their conceptions of participation and citizenship

Keeping Women and Children Last Ruth Sidel, 1998-11-01 In Keeping Women and Children Last Ruth Sidel shows how

America in its search for a post Cold War enemy has turned inward to target single mothers on welfare and how politicians have scapegoated and stigmatized female headed families both as a method of social control and to divert attention from the severe problems that Americans face She reveals the real victims of poverty the millions of children who suffer from societal neglect inferior education inadequate health care hunger and homelessness In this new edition focusing on the passage of the Personal Responsibility and Work Opportunity Reconciliation Act of 1996 Sidel reevaluates our social policy assessing the impact of the end of welfare as we know it on America's poor especially its women and children Urban Survival Ruth Sidel, 1995-01-01 Although conditions have vastly improved since the days of sweatshops the working woman is still likely to be underpaid overworked and without adequate resources In Urban Survival eight working class women of different ages and races speak with pride and independence about their daily reality their hopes and fears Ruth Sidel's new introduction shows that although she interviewed the women in the late seventies their concerns are still current Now as then the working woman worries about obtaining needed childcare healthcare and social services about being the last hired and first fired about welfare drugs and violence The oral histories in Urban Survival reveal a vivid picture of the struggle for survival in today's cities

Student Movements for Multiculturalism David Yamane, 2003-05-22 Beginning with the premise that a comprehensive understanding of American life must confront the issue of race sociologist David Yamane explores efforts by students and others to address racism and racial inequality to challenge the color line in higher education By 1991 nearly half of all colleges and universities in the United States had established a multicultural general education requirement Yamane examines how such requirements developed at the University of California at Berkeley and the University of Wisconsin at Madison during the late 1980s when these two schools gained national attention in debates over the curriculum Based on interviews primary documents and the existing literature on race and ethnic relations education cultural conflict and the sociology of organizations Student Movements for Multiculturalism makes an important contribution to our understanding of how curricular change occurs and concludes that multiculturalism represents an opening not a closing of the American mind

Queer Man on Campus Patrick Dille, 2013-11-12 This book reveals the inadequacy of a unified gay identity in studying the lives of queer college men Instead seven types of identities are discernible in the lives of non heterosexual college males as the author shows

The Agony of Education Joe R. Feagin, Hernan Vera, Nikitah Imani, 2014-04-23 The Agony of Education is about the life experience of African American students attending a historically white university Based on seventy seven interviews conducted with black students and parents concerning their experiences with one state university as well as published and unpublished studies of the black experience at state universities at large this study captures the painful choices and agonizing dilemmas at the heart of the decisions African Americans must make about higher education

Women of Color in Higher Education Gaëtane Jean-Marie, Brenda Lloyd-Jones, 2011-08-31 Focuses on African American Hispanic American Native American and Asian Pacific American women whose increased presence in senior level administrative and academic positions in higher education is transforming the political climate to be more inclusive of women of color Becoming Penn John L. Puckett, Mark Frazier Lloyd, 2015-05-22 After World War II the University of Pennsylvania became one of the world's most celebrated research universities John L Puckett and Mark Frazier Lloyd trace Penn's rise to eminence amid the postwar social institutional moral and civic contexts that shaped American research universities
