Buffalo City 2014 Application Form:

Postindustrial DIY Daniel Campo, 2024-02-13 Chronicles grassroots efforts to recover rebuild and enjoy architecturally iconic but economically obsolete places in the American Rust Belt A pioneering Detroit automobile factory A legendary iron mill at the edge of Pittsburgh A campus of concrete grain elevators in Buffalo Two monumental train stations one in Buffalo the other in Detroit These once noble sites have since fallen from their towering grace As local elected leaders did everything they could to destroy what was left of these places citizens saw beauty and utility in these industrial ruins and felt compelled to act Postindustrial DIY tells their stories The culmination of more than a dozen years of on the ground investigation ethnography and historical analysis author and urbanist Daniel Campo immerses the reader in this postindustrial landscape weaving the perspectives of dozens of DIY protagonists as well as architects planners and preservationists Working without capital expertise and sometimes permission in a milieu dominated by powerful political and economic interests these do it yourself actors are driven by passion and a sense of civic duty rather than by profit or political expediency They have craftily remade these sites into collective preservation projects and democratic grounds for arts and culture environmental engagement regional celebrations itinerant play and in the moment constructions Their projects are generating excitement about the prospect of Rust Belt life even as they often remain invisible to the uninformed passerby and fall short of professional preservation or environmental reclamation standards Demonstrating that there is no such thing as a site that is too far gone to save or reuse Postindustrial DIY is rich with case studies that demonstrate how great architecture is not simply for the elites or the wealthy The citizen preservationists and urbanists described in this book offer looser more playful and often more publicly satisfying alternatives to the development practices that have transformed iconic sites into expensive real estate or a clean slate for the next profitable endeavor Transcending the disciplinary boundaries of architecture historic preservation city planning and landscape architecture Postindustrial DIY suggests new ways to engage adapt and preserve architecturally compelling sites and bottom up strategies for Rust Belt revival Congressional Record United States. Congress, 2014 The Hybrid Governance of Urban Food Movements Alessandra Manganelli, 2022-07-01 Undertaking a journey into the hybrid governance of urban food movements this book offers an original and nuanced analysis of the urban milieu as epicentre of food activism and food governance Through examples of food movements in the city regions of Toronto and Brussels the author highlights the critical governance tensions urban food initiatives experience as they develop in diverse ways and seek to change food systems and their related socio political conditions The author investigates urban food movements as they negotiate access to land in urban areas build resilient food network organisations and develop supportive policies and empowering institutions for urban food governance Through the analysis of these tensions the book effectively puts real life challenges of urban food movements in the spotlight challenges that are increasingly visible and pertinent in today's converging climate socio political and health crises The author offers suggestions to improve alternative food practices and ultimately to design promising pathways to instigate food system change FCC Record United States. Federal Communications Commission,2016 Shrinking Cities Russell Weaver,Sharmistha Bagchi-Sen,Jason Knight,Amy E. Frazier,2016-07-15 Shrinking Cities Understanding Shrinkage and Decline in the United States offers a contemporary look at patterns of shrinkage and decline in the United States The book juxtaposes the complex and numerous processes that contribute to these patterns with broader policy frameworks that have been under consideration to address shrinkage in U S cities A range of methods are employed to answer theoretically grounded questions about patterns of shrinkage and decline the relationships between the two and the empirical associations among shrinkage decline and several socio economic variables In doing so the book examines new spaces of shrinkage in the United States The book also explores pro growth and decline centered governance which has important implications for questions of sustainability and resilience in U S cities Finally the book draws attention to U S wide demographic shifts and argues for further research on socio economic pathways of various groups of population contextualized within population trends at various geographic scales This timely contribution contends that an understanding of what the city has become as it faces shrinkage is essential toward a critical analysis of development both within and beyond city boundaries The book will appeal to urban and regional studies scholars from a variety of disciplinary backgrounds as well as practitioners and policymakers Arts-based Research in Global Development Vicki-Ann Ware,Kirsten Sadeghi-Yekta,Tim Prentki,Wasim al Kurdi,2025-02-03 This book brings together a range of arts and development scholars and practitioners to explore the unique ways in which arts based research methods can make a unique positive contribution to effective global development practice Since the 1970s global development has witnessed an increase in the use of participatory approaches to enable the world s most excluded peoples to be actively involved in the planning and implementation of development projects that impact them A range of participatory practices are now in common use many of which use visual activities which enable fuller participation irrespective of literacy levels or social position More recently development practitioners with arts skills along with a small number of professionally trained artists have started engaging in a wider range of arts based practices within this participatory development space aimed at co creating new knowledge with these communities This book explores how the performing and visual arts provide spaces for the world s most marginalised communities to articulate their development aspirations and co create knowledge that contributes to development outcomes It also highlights how arts based research puts the power over development decisions back into the hands of recipient communities The book will be of interest to development practitioners and artists working with marginalised communities globally policymakers in arts and global development graduate students and academics The rich case studies provide many fresh ideas for arts and or development practitioners wanting to utilise arts based research particularly with performing arts in global development programming Affordable Housing in US Shrinking Cities

world's population the converse phenomenon of shrinking cities is often overlooked and little understood Yet with almost one in ten post industrial US cities shrinking in recent years efforts by government and anchor institutions to regenerate these cities is gaining policy urgency with the availability and siting of affordable housing being a key concern This is the first book to look at the reasons for the failure and success of affordable housing experiences in the fastest shrinking cities in the US Applying quantitative and GIS analysis using data from the US Department of Housing and Urban Development the authors make recommendations for future place based siting practices stressing its importance for ensuring more equitable urban revitalisation The book will be a valuable resource for academic researchers and students in urban studies housing and inequality as well as policy makers

The Past and Future City Stephanie Meeks, Kevin C. Murphy, 2016-10-04 At its most basic historic preservation is about keeping old places alive in active use and relevant to the needs of communities today As cities across America experience a remarkable renaissance and more and more young diverse families choose to live work and play in historic neighborhoods the promise and potential of using our older and historic buildings to revitalize our cities is stronger than ever This urban resurgence is a national phenomenon boosting cities from Cleveland to Buffalo and Portland to Pittsburgh Experts offer a range of theories on what is driving the return to the city from the impact of the recent housing crisis to a desire to be socially engaged live near work and reduce automobile use But there's also more to it Time and again when asked why they moved to the city people talk about the desire to live somewhere distinctive to be some place rather than no place Often these distinguishing urban landmarks are exciting neighborhoods Miami boasts its Art Deco district New Orleans the French Quarter Sometimes as in the case of Baltimore's historic rowhouses the most distinguishing feature is the urban fabric itself While many aspects of this urban resurgence are a cause for celebration the changes have also brought to the forefront issues of access affordable housing inequality sustainability and how we should commemorate difficult history This book speaks directly to all of these issues In The Past and Future City Stephanie Meeks the president of the National Trust for Historic Preservation describes in detail and with unique empirical research the many ways that saving and restoring historic fabric can help a city create thriving neighborhoods good jobs and a vibrant economy She explains the critical importance of preservation for all our communities the ways the historic preservation field has evolved to embrace the challenges of the twenty first century and the innovative work being done in the preservation space now This book is for anyone who cares about cities places and saving America's diverse stories in a way that will bring us together and help us better understand our past present and future
