Building Brain Edward H Clarke:

The building of a brain. By Edward H. Clarke Edward H. Clarke, 1882 Bibliography of Education Will Seymour Monroe, 1903 The Boston Medical and Surgical Journal, 1867 Elizabeth Cady Stanton, Feminist as Thinker Ellen Carol DuBois, Richard Cándida Smith, 2007-04

More than one hundred years after her death Elizabeth Cady Stanton still stands along with her close friend Susan B Anthony as the major icon of the struggle for women's suffrage. In spite of this celebrity Stanton's intellectual contributions have been largely overshadowed by the focus on her political activities and she is yet to be recognized as one of the major thinkers of the nineteenth century. Here at long last is a single volume exploring and presenting Stanton's thoughtful original lifelong inquiries into the nature, origins, range, and solutions of women's subordination. Elizabeth Cady Stanton, Feminist as Thinker, reintroduces, contextualizes, and critiques Stanton's numerous contributions to modern thought. It juxtaposes a selection of Stanton's own writings, many of them previously unavailable, with eight original essays by prominent historians and social theorists interrogating Stanton's views on such pressing social issues as religion, marriage, race, the self, and community, and her place among leading nineteenth-century feminist thinkers. Taken together, these essays and documents reveal the different facets, enduring insights, and fascinating contradictions of the work of one of the great thinkers of the feminist tradition.

Marsh, Wanda Ronner, 1996. So-called ovarian transplantations performed in the early twentieth century foreshadowed the modern practice of egg donation, and the first experiments in human in vitro fertilization date back to the 1930s. Marsh and Ronner also tell the little-known story of free and low-cost clinics in the urban North where low-income women were treated for infertility beginning in the nineteenth century.
