Governing by Design Aggregate Architectural History

Collaborative, 2012-04-29 Governing by Design offers a unique perspective on twentieth century architectural history It disputes the primacy placed on individuals in the design and planning process and instead looks to the larger influences of politics culture economics and globalization to uncover the roots of how our built environment evolves In these chapters historians offer their analysis on design as a vehicle for power and as a mediator of social currents Power is defined through a variety of forms modernization obsolescence technology capital ergonomics biopolitics and others The chapters explore the diffusion of power through the establishment of norms and networks that frame human conduct action identity and design They follow design as it functions through the body in the home and at the state and international level Overall Aggregate views the intersection of architecture with the human need for what Foucault termed governmentality societal rules structures repetition and protocols as a way to provide security and tame risk Here the conjunction of power and the power of design reinforces governmentality and infuses a sense of social permanence despite the exceedingly fluid nature of societies and the disintegration of cultural memory in the modern era

Obsolescence Daniel M. Abramson, 2016-02-12

In our architectural pursuits we often seem to be in search of something newer grander or more efficient and this phenomenon is not novel In the spring of 1910 hundreds of workers labored day and night to demolish the Gillender Building in New York once the loftiest office tower in the world in order to make way for a taller skyscraper The New York Times puzzled over those who would sacrifice the thirteen year old structure as ruthlessly as though it were some ancient shack In New York alone the Gillender joined the original Grand Central Terminal the Plaza Hotel the Western Union Building and the Tower Building on the list of just one generation s razed metropolitan monuments In the innovative and wide ranging Obsolescence Daniel M Abramson investigates this notion of architectural expendability and the logic by which buildings lose their value and utility The idea that the new necessarily outperforms and makes superfluous the old Abramson argues helps people come to terms with modernity and capitalism s fast paced change Obsolescence then gives an unsettling experience purpose and meaning Belief in obsolescence as Abramson shows also profoundly affects architectural design In the 1960s many architects worldwide accepted the inevitability of obsolescence experimenting with flexible modular designs from open plan schools offices labs and museums to vast megastructural frames and indeterminate building complexes Some architects went so far as to embrace obsolescence s liberating promise to cast aside convention and habit envisioning expendable short life buildings that embodied human choice and freedom Others we learn were horrified by the implications of this ephemerality and waste and their resistance eventually set the stage for our turn to sustainability the conservation rather than disposal of resources Abramson s fascinating tour of our idea of obsolescence culminates in an assessment of recent manifestations of sustainability from adaptive reuse and historic preservation to postmodernism and green design which all struggle to comprehend and manage the changes that challenge us on all sides

Sustainable Retrofitting of Commercial Buildings Richard Hyde,Nathan Groenhout,Francis Barram,Ken Yeang,2015-01-28 Despite recent improvements in energy efficiency being made in new build it is important that the existing commercial building sector also take action to meet emission reduction targets The objectives and challenges of such action will reduce the risk of the sector becoming obsolete due to high energy use and poor environmental performance This book presents a theory based practice support methodology to deal with sustainable retrofitting opportunities for existing commercial buildings in warm climates using bioclimatic design as the basis. The book has four main parts focusing on eco design and renovation, bioclimatic retrofitting, technological and behavioural change, and case studies of retrofitting exemplars. In the first part, the context of climate change effects on design and renovation at the city scale is discussed. The second part looks at bioclimatic retrofitting as a design guide for existing buildings, highlighting the significance of architectural design and engineering systems for energy performance. The technological and behavioural contexts of the existing building sector, policies, modelling, monitoring, and trend analysis in respect to energy and environmental performance are covered in part three. The final part gives some case studies showing the effectiveness of strategies suggested for effective environmental performance.
