MANAGEMENT GUIDE FOR EXECUTIVES Ram Chandra Choudhary, 2020-08-18 Everyone thinks that their personal behaviour is excellent but others do not care I have seen people crying on the dais while speaking and even during interviews At the negotiation table I have witnessed both parties fighting and the process fizzled out In some cases you will find a leader who is unaware of the style she he is following and an executive who does not know the problems of his subordinates When he sits to make his own future plans he starts walking in a dream He listens and starts debating All these and some more common issues in playing a managerial role inspired me to made me want to write this book I would have immense pleasure to learn that the thoughts in this book have guided you to move on the right track

Co-Creating in Health Practice Justin Amery, 2018-04-19 If we feel better able to express and explore who we are we may find that our health practice can also become a self practice in which we can create healthier existences for ourselves too At the heart of it all communication is the search for brighter light for insight even for enlightenment Insight illuminates darkness listening fosters understanding and speaking helps dispel the seeds of despair That is the virtuous cycle that lies at the heart of effective practice Justin Amery This extraordinary new series fills a void in practitioner development and well being The books take a reflective step back from the tick box target driven and increasingly regulated world of 21st century health practice and invite us to revisit what health and health practice actually are Building carefully on the science and philosophy of health each book addresses the messy complex and often chaotic world of real life health practice and offers an ancient but now almost revolutionary understanding for students and experienced practitioners alike that health practice is a fundamentally creative and compassionate activity The series as a whole helps practitioners to redefine and recreate their daily practice in ways that are healthier for both patients and practitioners The books provide a welcome antidote to demoralisation and burn out amongst practitioners reversing cynicism and reviving our feeling of pride in and our understanding of health practice By observing practice life through different lenses they encourage the development of efficiency effectiveness and above all satisfaction The Integrated Practitioner Co creating in Health Practice is the second book in the series It focuses on communication and considers the unusual but highly powerful relationship between physicians and patients within which better health is co created It offers new ideas on various ways of communicating in practice that inspire healthier and happier existences for both patients and practitioners Brilliantly written practitioners students and trainees and GP trainers will find the enlightening witty conversational style a joy to read
