Abiotic And Biotic Factors Of The Desert:

Energetics of Desert Invertebrates Harold Heatwole, 2012-12-06 Desert invertebrates live in an environment where resources alternate unpredictably between brief periods of plenty and prolonged scarcity This book describes the adaptive strategies of desert invertebrates in acquiring energy and sustaining life under such vicissitudes Some cooperate in foraging others compete for resources Some are nomadic and migrate to more favorable sites as conditions change Others conserve energy by going into a deep dormancy until better conditions return Still others store food during plenty and retreat underground during less favorable times The adaptive modes of husbanding scarce energy resources are diverse and lead to an appreciation of the intricate interactions of animals living near their environmental limits The Ecology of Desert Communities Gary A. Polis, 2023-01-10 Provides interesting and thought provoking reading and is highly recommended to anyone interested in desert ecosystems or community ecology The book should serve as an inspiration to many for future research Journal of Biogeography This book is not just about deserts it is an update of the contributions that research in desert systems is making to community ecology This book will provide a useful reference for desert ecologists as well as indicate critical directions where progress needs to be made Ecology This important book fills a significant gap in previous syntheses by presenting a detailed series of reviews of current understanding of community patterns and structure in desert environments Each chapter is thorough and well written and closes with a discussion of suggested future research These ideas will do much to focus interest on the importance of desert systems in understanding community Thus this book has interest well beyond desert ecologists alone BioScience Valuable reading and reference for ecology students teachers and researchers Quarterly Review of Biology Desert Farming Brook Clearwater, AI, 2025-03-10 Desert Farming explores agriculture's adaptation to arid environments highlighting innovations driving sustainable food production It examines how cutting edge irrigation technologies such as drip and subsurface methods minimize water waste while optimizing crop yields The book also delves into precision agriculture illustrating how sensors drones and data analytics play a crucial role in resource allocation and crop management addressing the growing need for food security amid desertification and climate change The book progresses systematically beginning with desert ecology fundamentals before exploring specific irrigation techniques technological applications and crop selection strategies It integrates technological innovations with traditional ecological knowledge presenting a balanced approach Case studies from around the world showcase successful desert farming initiatives emphasizing practical implications and the potential of geographical resilience Survival Strategies of Annual Desert Plants Yitzchak Gutterman, 2012-12-06 Annual desert plant species of unrelated taxa in the Negev Desert of Israel have developed complementary sets of adaptations and survival strategies as ecological equivalents with physiological morphological and anatomical resemblances in the various stages of their life cycles After 40 years of research in hot deserts Yitzchak Gutterman provides a comprehensive treatise of such adaptations and strategies In doing so he covers the following topics post maturation primary seed dormancy which prevents germination of maturing seeds before the summer seed dispersal mechanisms with escape or protection strategies cautious or opportunistic germination strategies seedling drought tolerance The day length is an important factor in regulating flowering as well as the phenotypic plasticity of seed germination which is also affected by maternal factors Awareness Environmental Education IX Dr. M.P. Resource value of desert shrubs 12 D Iraq a brief introduction to the country 14 1 Environment 14 2 Population 17 3 Land use 18 4 Vegetation 19 I INTRODUCTION I A Scope of the study The degradation of renewable natural resources in the arid areas of South West Asia has become a matter of great concern Locally the effects of careless utilization of the land and its resources had been felt long ago It is however only relatively recently that the gravity of the situation is being generally and fully realised It is now well understood that action is required to save what is left and possibly to restore what was once there Such action requires organization and coordination but above all knowledge of the present state of the resources and the impact of utilization processes Part of this knowledge is already available The problems are not confined to this part of the world's arid lands but exist equally well elsewhere Especially over the last decades an ever increasing number of studies have been published dealing with aspects of arid zone research Problem analyses were followed by compilations of knowledge in particular fields White 1956 Hills 1966 McGinnies et al 1967 1969 1971 Kaul 1970 Clawson et al Dispersal Biology of Desert Plants Karen van Rheede van Oudtshoorn, Margaretha W. van Rooyen, 1998-12-04 Dispersal processes have important effects on plant distribution and abundance Although adaptations to long range dispersal telechory are by no means rare in desert plants many desert plant species do not possess any features to promote dispersal atelechory while others have structures that hamper dispersal antitelechory The high frequency with which atelechorous and antitelechorous mechanisms are present in plants inhabiting arid areas indicates the importance of these adaptations Among the benefits derived from these adaptations are the spreading of germination over time the provision of suitable conditions for germination and subsequent seedling establishment and the maintenance of a reservoir of available seeds seed bank This book describes the ways and means anatomical morphological and ecological by which dispersal in desert plants has evolved to ensure the survival of these species in their harsh and unpredictable environment Management and Development of Agricultural and Natural Resources in Egypt's Desert Ahmed A. Elkhoully, Abdelazim Negm, 2021-05-31 This book reviews the economic potential of various natural resources found in the Egyptian deserts that could help fill the food gap in Egypt e.g. the date palm olives and domestic animals Bearing in mind that the entire country is subject to arid or hyperarid climatic conditions only a small portion 3% of total area is agriculturally productive in comparison the dominant deserts These aspects combined with a growing population ca 100 million citizens and water resources scarcity have produced severe adverse effects on natural resource utilization This book presents innovative methods for addressing desert soil's key problems soil erosion salinity pollution decreased fertility minerals and weed and pest control Its goal is to help authorities reclaim the desert and optimally utilize the minerals and the available natural resources to support the sustainability agenda 2030 Besides it offers researchers guidance on remaining gaps and future research directions Lastly and importantly it provides essential information on investment opportunities in desert cultivation such as the fields of food fodder and medicinal plants
