Accidental Branding How Ordinary People Build Extraordinary Brands Hardcover 2008 Author David Vinjamuri:

Accidental Branding David Vinjamuri, 2008-03-31 Every year thousands of new business are started by people with no knowledge of modern marketing at all and some of them survive and thrive Accidental Branding tells the story of seven accidental brands and how their founders beat bigger competitors by breaking the standard rules of marketing Successful brands like Burt's Bees, J. Peterman and Clif Bar reveal how doing things differently can lead to big time success If you're an entrepreneur or a marketer this guide will show you how to build stronger brands

You Are Remarkable David Cosand, J. J. Watson, Mike Jones, 2021-12-29 You Are Remarkable helps businesses and organizations unlock their authentic genuine real brand identities and express them effectively to their customers This book was written to help Up and Coming Professional Marketers Marketing Leaders Marketing and Business Management Students Startup Founders Small Business Owners who want to become better marketers and unlock the power of authentic branding This book is authored by three branding experts with 45 years of brand strategy experience who wrote this book because they think everybody they've ever heard write and speak about branding has it all wrong Many say that branding is about making up a compelling story that telling a new story about yourself or presenting your brand in a new way can actually change the identity of your organization They think that the way you express yourself outwardly to others and the story you tell about yourself actually creates your identity and makes you who you are As they envision it branding is how a company invents and perpetually reinvents itself This is completely backwards Nothing can change your identity Not even you If it changed it wouldn't be you Organizations are groups of people who work together and they are just as real as the people who are part of them The core identity or essence of an organization does not depend on its story or public perception Corporations are not invented with images and words A new name and logo does not make a new company Making up a brand based on what you want others to perceive is lying and it undermines customer trust If you haven't noticed right now there is a huge crisis of trust in institutions This is in no small part because so many institutions have bought into the idea that they can reinvent themselves by simply publishing a new narrative The public sees the lie and therefore rejects the institution Branding is instead about expressing the already existing reality of an organization Refining your brand is about more truthfully representing the genuine inner identity that is already there Chapter One explains philosophy of branding how and why brands are remarkable the soul of a brand and how a brand's core purpose relates to its brand Chapters Two through Five explain why authentic truthful branding is so important by discussing four major myths that people tend to believe about branding Chapters Six and Seven give tactical advice on how to unlock your brand explaining how to discover your brand's purpose values and vision in order to unlock your brand identity Chapters Eight Nine and Ten get you ready to show your brand to the world Your brand expression is the way your brand communicates outwardly Storytelling is an important part of this but the story must be honest Chapters Eleven and Twelve reflect on rebranding and growth offering you an understanding of what business growth actually means

how a brand can aid the growth of a business and when a business has grown and changed so much that rebranding is necessary By the end of this book you ll know just how remarkable your organization is and how to start acting like it
