Abolitionism A Revolutionary Movement Social Movements Past And Present:

Love, Sex and Activism Amy SIM, 2023-06-23 This book is about the lives of Indonesian women employed in Hong Kong as Foreign Domestic Helpers. It tells of their lives as labour activists, leaders, religious leaders, lovers of men and women, undocumented migrants when they overstay their visas, single mothers and as wives in marriages that take place in Hong Kong. The reader will learn the inside stories of what gave them strength and the barriers they encountered to personal empowerment. I introduce the role of migrant NGOs that assist them in Hong Kong and examine the nature of power exercised by the State and other non-State actors such as migrant NGOs, employers and civil society that characterise their experiences in Hong Kong. Based on fifteen years of ethnographic research in Hong Kong, there are eleven chapters in this book. Chapter One begins with the effect of the Asian Financial Crisis that witnessed the systematic and exponential increase of Indonesian domestic workers in Hong Kong from 1 000 in 1990 to 40 000 in 2000 and 150 000 by 2011. Chapter Two provides the background of their employment in Hong Kong and their social and legal exclusions as Foreign Domestic Workers that gives context to the ensuing chapters. Chapter Three is about the rise of Indonesian women's labour activism, their participation and understanding of their own roles as activists and grassroots leaders. Chapter Four is about the rise of consciousness amongst Indonesian women migrant workers about their role as Muslims and their emergence as religious leaders for their compatriots in migration. Chapter Five presents their perspectives of power, leadership and authority as secular grassroots leaders in the Indonesian activist community in Hong Kong. Chapter Six presents Indonesian women's experiences of disempowerment in Indonesia from their discussions of a range of factors including poverty, broken families, adultery, arranged marriages, son preferences, favouritism among siblings, domestic violence in marriage etc. and how activism in Hong Kong helped them recover. Chapter Seven is about the centrality of women's shelters and networks in Hong Kong and the nature of migrant NGOs, role, leadership and power vis-à-vis grassroots migrant activists and leaders and their supporters. Chapter Eight showcases the romantic relationships of Indonesian women migrants in Hong Kong with both local and foreign men, the problem of sexual violence, unwanted pregnancies, babies born in Hong Kong and brought home to Indonesia, those put up for adoption and Indonesian women's marriages and settlement in Hong Kong. Chapter Nine examines the stories of Indonesian women involved in same-sex relationships in Hong Kong with other Indonesian women, what these relationships mean to them and the relationship between labour migration and Indonesian women's transitory homosexual liaisons in Hong Kong. Chapter Ten is about how illegalities are created in labour migration by the nature of a range of actors including their employers, recruitment and employment agencies by the State and its representatives and by Indonesian women who overstay their visas. It presents their experiences and perspectives as overstayers and highlights the dangers they encounter as undocumented migrants in Hong Kong. Chapter Eleven highlights further areas of research and concludes with theoretical concerns about how Indonesian women's agencies as individuals are often misread and the problems of misunderstanding agencies as generic similar across different social groups including women and between individuals and institutionalised and collectivised agencies in academic work The Author Amy Sim is a Cultural Anthropologist PhD HKU She taught Anthropology Gender Globalisation and Migration Studies at the University of Hong Kong Her research and publications focus on women s transnational labour migration in East and Southeast Asia women s empowerment leadership gender issues and sexuality and the development of NGOs for migrant workers in Hong Kong She is an advocate of migrant women domestic workers in East and Southeast Asia for two decades Prior to academia she worked with communities in developing countries on issues of Sustainable Development from eco tourism in Indonesia to income generation for women s empowerment projects in Cambodia Fiji Indonesia Laos Philippines Thailand and Vietnam She was involved in international research development and advocacy projects for the Governments of Canada and the United Kingdom and international NGOs

Race and Rights Dana Elizabeth Weiner,2013-01-15 In the Old Northwest from 1830 to 1870 a bold set of activists battled slavery and racial prejudice This book is about their expansive efforts to eradicate southern slavery and its local influence in the contentious milieu of four new states carved out of the Northwest Territory Illinois Indiana Michigan and Ohio While the Northwest Ordinance outlawed slavery in the region in 1787 in reality both it and racism continued to exert strong influence in the Old Northwest as seen in the race based limitations of civil liberties there Indeed these states comprised the central battleground over race and rights in antebellum America in a time when race s social meaning was deeply infused into all aspects of Americans lives and when people struggled to establish political consensus Antislavery and anti prejudice activists from a range of institutional bases crossed racial lines as they battled to expand African American rights in this region Whether they were antislavery lecturers journalists or African American leaders of the Black Convention Movement women or men they formed associations wrote publicly to denounce their local racial climate and gave controversial lectures In the process they discovered that they had to fight for their own right to advocate for others This bracing new history by Dana Elizabeth Weiner is thus not only a history of activism but also a history of how Old Northwest reformers understood the law and shaped new conceptions of justice and civil liberties The newest addition to the Mellon sponsored Early American Places Series Race and Rights will be a much welcomed contribution to the study of race and social activism in nineteenth century America

The Conservative Movement Paul Gottfried,1993 At the beginning of the 1990s conservative commentators have increasingly focused on the growing fragmentation of the American political and intellectual Right From the early postwar years when a small band of intellectual dissidents emerged in response to the Soviet threat to the 1980s and the Reagan years when the coalition of journalists politicians and lobbyists known as the New Right reached the height of its influence the conservative movement has always been a complex shifting set of ideologies and factions In this revised and updated study Paul Gottfried provides an insider's look at the factions and controversies the personalities and ideologies the rival journals and institutes He presents the argument that the scope of this war on the Right has been misrepresented by journalists who have been sympathetic to the moderates and have consistently downplayed the strength and intelligence of the paleoconservatives A striking feature of the book is a detailed well informed exposition of the conservative foundations and think tanks revealing who funds whom and who controls whom information that has never before appeared in print Gottfried discusses the implications of the 1992 electoral campaign for the future of the Right from paleocon Pat Buchanan's controversial bid for the Republican nomination to the migration of several leading neocons over to Democratic candidate Bill Clinton's camp Certain to spark both attention and controversy this book is required reading for anyone who wants to understand the complex conservative landscape and its prospects for the future

The Hospice Movement Cathy Siebold,1992 What had been intended as a full fledged alternative to a system of care that seemed best suited to the interests of physicians and hospital staff not the terminally ill has for the most part been reduced to a mere extension of that system Cathy Siebold a social worker and psychotherapist who has witnessed firsthand the evolution of hospice care since its modern incarnation in the 1960s presents a balanced and objective analysis of the movement's accomplishments and failings in The Hospice Movement Easing Death's Pains Using social movement theory to frame her discussion Siebold traces the bell curve of growth maturity and decline that to a point has characterized the hospice movement

Farmers' and Farm Workers' Movements Patrick H. Mooney, Theo J. Majka,1995 The section on farm worker movements looks mainly at the agribusiness economy of California beginning with farm worker mobilization in the depression era and the emergence of such prominent unions as the Cannery and Agricultural Workers Industrial Union and the United Cannery Agricultural Packing and Allied Workers of America The authors extensively examine the United Farm Workers UFW activism that began in 1965 under the late Cesar Chavez and culminated in 1975 with the passage of the California Agricultural Labor Relations Act The achievements of the Farm Labor Organizing Committee in Ohio and Michigan during the 1980s and early 1990s is also compared with the relative failures of the UFW during that same time period and the authors pay particular attention to the control issues that have been crucial among farm worker demands

The Prison Reform Movement Larry E. Sullivan,1990 Traces the history of prison reform in the United States as the reformers attempt to set up a system that would deter further crime and rehabilitate convicts come into conflict with the need to punish and the inherent character of imprisonment

The Children's Rights Movement Joseph M. Hawes,1991 Comprehensive history of the children's rights movement from the colonial period to the present
